

RALPH Mc GILL

We Can't Afford to Wait

A wry jest is current in Southern areas where resistance to the court's school decision against desegregation is most massive.

"We will abolish our schools if necessary to save segregation."

"Yeah. You can. But within a few years you won't have many people who can spell the word."

There is little humor in it, but it serves as a preamble to the almost incredible national attitude toward education. Some few Southern states are willing to abandon education rather than end discrimination. The Congress of the United States concluded hearings last April on a bill which would provide hard-pressed communities with assistance to build needed schools. Since that time there has been no action, even though every member of the Congress knows such neglect currently is detrimental to the children and to the nation in the years ahead.

It is not merely that our educational system needs revising to make it more contributive to the needs of the American or free-institutions form of government. We do not have enough classrooms in which to teach what we now offer.

Secret Weapon

It was the opinion of Adm. Hyman Rickover and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, after their return from Russia with Vice President Nixon, that the only really secret weapon the Soviets possess is their educational complex. They confirmed the findings of other educators and scientists who have visited Russia in the past two or three years. The U.S.S.R. does not waste any talent or intelligence. A Russian secondary (high school) graduate is believed by them to be a good two years ahead of United States graduates insofar as sound, basic education is concerned.

The Soviets are ruthless about it. They give every boy or girl who will work and who has ability a chance at all the education they can take. When exceptional ability appears they see it and encourage it.

Our people, who know that in every city and every rural community there are talented boys and girls who, by reason of parental opposition, lack of money, or need to go to work to help support the family, never get to college. Many do not even finish high school.

This would not happen in Russia. There the loafer and the uninterested quickly are dropped out to remain laborers all their lives, without hope of another chance. There the talented does not have much freedom of career, once it is chosen. We would not want to imitate anything about education in the U.S.S.R. save to give every boy or girl who earns it a chance at full opportunity of education.

The nation can ill spare to lose ability and skill in the sort of world we now have — and in the one toward which we are moving.

National Security

All this makes the more inexplicable the attitude of Congress and the public. It is no exaggeration to say that if we do not maintain and strengthen an adequate system of public education our national security is in jeopardy.

We do not have enough teachers. We do not have the necessary classrooms.

Schools will open in September.

The shortage of classrooms will be somewhere around 140,500. If we follow the present, somewhat accelerated pace of classroom building it will take us 13 years to eliminate the existing shortage. And the population is growing.

We cannot afford to wait that long.

Drastic action is needed. Those states which officially decide to reduce themselves to a nonpublic school status cannot be allowed to drag down the level of the whole nation. The Congress ought to act and allow those states which are willing to commit themselves to education to have all necessary aid. It is a choice. To do so is not to discriminate against those which by free choice refuse such assistance.

Time, in the immortal words of Snuffy Smith, is a wastin'.

AND THEN IT BUSTED — COLUMBUS, Ohio — This bubble and the hairline around it belong to Dorothy Donley, 11-year-old contestant in a

Communist Guerrillas Take 2 Posts Near Laos Capital

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Communist rebels have made a surprise strike in central Laos and forced government troops out of two points protecting this administrative capital's communications with the south, reliable sources said Sunday.

The informants said government troops withdrew from a military and police post near Pak Sane, 60 miles east of Vientiane, after fighting a battle of several hours Saturday.

The town of Sop Vieng, in the same general area about 50 miles northeast of Vientiane, was given up Friday, the sources added.

The report was not confirmed by military headquarters. A Defense Ministry spokesman announced it had been ordered by the Foreign Ministry to issue no further communiques. The order threatened to lower a blackout over Laos' fight to maintain its independence against the pressure of neighboring Communists in North Viet Nam and Red China.

The rebels near Pak Sane are in a position to ambush traffic and partially control the one road running east and then south of Vientiane along the Mekong River.

Pak Sane is near the big bend of the river where Laos is squeezed to its narrowest point, a distance of only about 60 miles between Thailand and North Viet Nam. To the north is the main body of Laos, to the south an elongated tail.

Informed sources said about 48,000 Vietnamese refugees who have been living in Thailand have reported crossing the Mekong River border into Laos.

Some of them were reported moving north toward Sam Neua province. The significance of this movement was not explained, but

Ellender Pledges Siege On Tough Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators on opposite sides of the fight over civil rights legislation said Sunday the battle may delay the adjournment of Congress for weeks.

Motorist Gets A Bum Steer

Atlanta Frank Parrott was having trouble with his car battery, so he asked a bystander to get under the wheel while he pushed.

The engine started humming and the car shot forward. Parrott was left standing in the street as the car sped out of sight. It's still gone.

"The adjournment rush is on," said Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), "but I have a suspicion that it may turn out to be one of the most protracted windups in recent congressional history."

Why was rights bill shelved in House? Interpretative story on Page 16.

While many members are talking of ending the session before Labor Day, Keating said he thinks it may be closer to Oct. 1.

In predicting this, he noted that he has announced plans to try to hook a broad civil rights measure onto a Southern-backed peanut bill. Steps to carry out similar strategy have been taken by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.).

Keating said that once the civil rights issue is joined, he feels it is sure to stir up long drawn out debate and delay adjournment.

From Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) came a warning to his colleagues that they might as well give up hope of adjourning even by mid-September if they try to pass any such civil rights proposals.

Fire Kills 8 Prisoners In Crowded Jail Long Assailed as 'Firetrap'

New Jersey Tragedy Injures 12

By PETER KIHSS

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

TOMS RIVER, N.J. — Eight prisoners died Sunday trapped in a fire in the Ocean County Jail, while many others survived only because firemen and wreckers tore and burned down screens and bars on second-floor windows.

Twelve other persons were injured, including seven inmates, four firemen and a Navy civilian.

Sheriff Harry Roe has long denounced the two-story brick jail — which had only one exit — as an overcrowded "firetrap." At the time of Sunday's fire 65 prisoners were in the building, along with two guards. The jail was built to hold only 52 cots, but it has housed as many as 82 prisoners by using mattresses on the floor.

STARTS IN PADDED CELL

The fire, from a cause not yet learned, was discovered at 11:23 a.m. in the lone padded cell at the southwest corner of the second floor. Sheriff Roe said one of those who died, General Petersen, 35, of Philadelphia, had been put in the cell as a mentally deranged prisoner.

There were two guards on duty, both on the first floor. One of them, William Gwyer, who is also the county radio operator, said the county radio operator, said the other guard, Stanley Moore, had just telephoned Dover township police here to get help to move a prisoner who appeared to be starting a fight.

Guard Moore went back to the cells, then hurriedly returned to report someone upstairs was yelling "fire." Gwyer dashed upstairs with a hand fire extinguisher and squirted carbon dioxide on flames darting through small ventilator holes in the padded cell. Moore called the Toms River Fire Department.

BLAST DELAYS RESCUE

Fire Chief Ensley C. Roe, a brother of the sheriff, said his department's two companies arrived within two minutes with three pumps, a tank wagon and two trucks. The Island Heights and Beachwood fire departments each sent a pumper.

The fire pumps began playing water on the southwest corner of the jail, from which heavy smoke was pouring. Four firemen obtained cell keys and put on

Maybe Showers, But Hot for Sure

Meteorologically speaking, Atlantans can expect the same old thing Monday and Tuesday.

The weather bureau reports that the outlook is for hot, partly cloudy, humid. There is a slight chance each day for afternoon and evening thundershowers. Temperatures are expected to range from 72 to 94 both days. Sunday temperatures ranged only from 74 to 94.

Red Chief Prods Bonn On Berlin

BONN, Germany (AP) — Soviet

Premier Nikita Khrushchev has reminded Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in a personal letter that the Russians still want to end the occupation regime in Berlin, authoritative informants reported Sunday.

These informants said Khrushchev made the same point in similar messages to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle.

West German officials confirmed the letter to Adenauer was delivered at the Foreign Office Wednesday by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov. They would not make the contents public.

Informants said the tone of the Khrushchev letter was moderate but firm. The Soviet leader repeated the line taken by his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, and rejected by the West at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference.

The Khrushchev letters were sent to the European allies a week before President Eisenhower is due to travel to Bonn, London and Paris for consultations before the Sept. 15 arrival of the Soviet Premier in Washington.

"It's an old Soviet tactic," one informant reported. "Khrushchev always sends messages just before important international events are due to take place."

Weekend Traffic Kills 11 in State

The death of an Atlanta policeman and a woman passenger in his car in a crash near Winder boosted the state's grisly weekend traffic toll late Sunday to 11.

They Inched 'Round the Mountain

By FRANK WELLS

Marshall Neill's family had a hair-raising experience on Braxton Road over the weekend. They drove in their car down an "impassable" road from the top of Georgia's highest mountain to Young Harris. The six-mile trip was seven hours long.

Theirs was the first car down from the top of the mountain on the "scenic route" which the folks around Young Harris are trying to get the state to grade. And the Neill's car couldn't make it without help from a four-wheel-drive Jeep.

"We didn't have any idea what we were getting into," Neill said in his Hapeville home Sunday night. "We were spending the weekend at Unicoi Park with the Jere Wells Sunday School Class."

BRISTOL, England (UPI) — There's a sign in a local store window here advertising "lemonade—all flavors."

Thomas Smith Keeler of 216 E. Cleveland Ave., East Point, the policeman, and Miss Nan B. Crompton, 936 Mathew Street, SW, were killed about 4:15 Sunday afternoon when their car and another automobile collided head-on 6.3 miles west of Winder on State Highway 11.

MINOR INJURIES

State troopers Jack Smith and J. E. Gaines of the Athens Patrol post, said the driver of the other car, John Norris Cunney of Winder, escaped with minor injuries.

Mrs. Thelma Hester, 40, and her mother, Mrs. Gladys Hester, 62, were killed in a Laurens County crash which injured eight other persons. The two cars loaded with churchgoers returning home, ran together on a county road six miles south of Dublin.

Those listed in critical condition at a Claxton hospital are Pallette Simmons, 10, and her brother Gary, 9, both of Savannah; Braxton Stanley, 9, and Herbert McTier, 12, both of Dublin.

Jerry Hester, 62, husband and father of the dead women, was listed in serious condition at a Dublin hospital.

Navy Seeks 40 A-Subs For Missiles

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The Navy wants 40 nuclear submarines that could launch a group of several hundred Polaris missiles, a top admiral disclosed Sunday in graphically describing naval plans for the "1970 era."

Vice Adm. Wallace M. Beakley, deputy chief of naval operations, told the American Legion's National Security Commission of the vast array of new missiles, carrier-based planes and both conventional and nuclear-powered ships envisioned for the Navy of the future.

He foresaw at least one complete all nuclear-powered task force of aircraft carriers, cruisers, frigates and destroyers, all carrying deadly accurate guided missiles.

SEES LONG-TERM THREAT
In unfolding the Navy's plans, Beakley said the Communist threat will continue through the "lives of generations to come."

The "horrible specter" of nuclear war requires the United States to maintain "an absolute, invulnerable deterrent" to global aggression, he said.

While limited war is more likely than global conflict, the admiral said, it would be "national suicide" not to be prepared for any kind of outbreak.

The Navy's contribution to the general war deterrent, he said, would be mainly the fleet of ballistic missile submarines—"some 40, more or less."

He said that many submarines could launch "several hundred Polaris missiles toward targets within minutes."

Earth Shock Rocks Resort In Montana

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP)—A sharp jolt early Sunday touched off another rock slide just above damaged Hebgen Dam and blocked a forest road leading to about 20 summer homes.

The police department in this small resort town said it doubted if there were any people in the cabins on the southwest edge of Hebgen Lake.

"I think they all packed up and left when this business started," a police officer said.

He added that the jolt was sharp enough to wake up every one in West Yellowstone, including a party of seven congressmen from Washington and other federal officials. They arrived Saturday for a helicopter inspection of this still quivering section of southwestern Montana.

The same tremor at 1:30 a.m. was felt at Old Faithful in Yellowstone National Park. A ranger there described it as "a pretty good jolt. It woke us up, but so far as I know, no damage was reported in the park."

Price Rises Ruined Income Gain in '58

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average American got caught in the middle of an economic squeeze play last year.

The government reported Sunday that personal income rose in 1958, but price increases more than wiped out the gains in purchasing power.

The Commerce department report cast more light on the unusual behavior of the economy last year. A general business slump of the kind experienced in 1957-58 would be expected to reduce both personal income and prices. But the report showed an opposite trend.

Per capita income rose to $2,057 in 1958, a $13 increase from the previous year. But the office of business economics said "since price increases more than counterbalanced this small rise," the average American's purchasing power fell slightly.

"Although the economy experienced a decline in business activity during the 1957-58 period," the report said, "personal income was up last year in all but four states." In three of the states that failed to register gains, personal income fell only slightly short of 1957, the report said.

The declines in total personal income occurred in Indiana, down 11 per cent; Ohio and Michigan,

Kremlin's Big Man Is No. 2 Here

No Chief of State Honors Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev may be the big boss in the Soviet Union, but as premier he's only the head of government, not chief of state.

As a result of this technical distinction, Washington officials are putting together something less than the most to greet the Soviet Premier when he arrives Sept. 15.

Khrushchev will step onto a red carpet after his Russian jetliner alights at Washington National Airport. But the trimmings won't be as fancy as they would be if he were King Nikita or President Khrushchev.

WHAT HE'LL MISS

Here's what comrade Khrushchev will be missing under the nice rules of protocol because he is only first minister, instead of king or president:

1. The ceremonial troops at the airport will fire off a mere 19-gun salute, not a 21-rounder.
2. President Eisenhower can meet Khrushchev at the White House instead of journeying out to the airport to greet him.
3. Khrushchev will get a free ride in a motorcade to the President's guest house, but not an official ceremonial procession. That means the route will not be decked with American, Soviet and District of Columbia flags, for instance, and government workers are not likely to be given time off to line the route.
4. He could get only an official lunch instead of dinner at the White House. This is optional, however, and actual plans are for a White House dinner on the night of his arrival.

DINNER PLANNED

Khrushchev in turn can take things a bit easier officially because of being a mere government head. He does not, for example, have to give a dinner for Eisenhower in return.

However, diplomatic sources said they expect Khrushchev will serve up a full course dinner for the President the following night.

A third ceremonial meal, usually tendered by the secretary of state or the vice president, is apparently out because of shortness of time. Khrushchev will be in the capital only two days before setting off on a week's tour of the country and on his second day here the National Press Club has him booked for lunch.

OFFERED BLAIR

Eisenhower has offered Khrushchev the use of Blair House, the government guest house across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House. This is a courtesy extended to both heads of government and heads of state. The Russians have not indicated yet whether Khrushchev will stay at Blair House or at the Soviet Embassy.

The protocol distinction which puts Khrushchev below the chief-of-state level does not detract one whit from the real importance attached to his visit here. Eisenhower himself has made plain that he regards Khrushchev as the Kremlin's No. 1 man.

Typhoon Slaps Formosa, Kills 2

TAIPEI (UPI)—Typhoon Irish killed two men and injured a third person Saturday when it sideswiped storm-battered Formosa, police said today. Officials described the damage as "miraculously light." The typhoon's fringe winds and heavy rains scraped across southern Formosa, stricken by floods and earthquakes the past two weeks, before slamming into the Communist China mainland near Amoy.

THREE CONVICTS CAPTURED IN HOME OF MINISTER AT FORT MADISON
The Rev. William W. Swift Was at Church During His Family's Ordeal

Deputy Slips Up on Escapees Who Held Minister's Family

FORT MADISON, Iowa (UPI)—Three escaped convicts held a minister's wife and her three children hostage for more than two hours in their home Sunday, but surrendered to a daring prison official.

The convicts, among six who escaped from the Iowa State Penitentiary by overpowering guards and sawing through window bars, did not harm the hostages.

They gave themselves up when Deputy Warden Bernard Nelson entered the home through a cellar door and crept upstairs, getting the drop on the escapees.

"It was the longest and the shortest 2½ hours of my life," said Mrs. Patricia Swift, 26, wife of the Rev. William Swift, priest of St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

She said the convicts did not try to harm her or her children. One of the escapees even heated a bottle of milk for her 10-week-old son, Charles.

But the escapees did force her to give up her husband's clothes and had changed from their prison uniforms in preparing to escape from the home, located about half a mile from the prison.

Suspicious policemen first learned of the convicts' presence in the home when an officer who came to the door spotted a man hiding in the shadows.

But the escapee threatened to shoot Mrs. Swift, although he was only holding a toy gun, and police backed away from the door and surrounded the house.

The convicts were identified as Samuel Parris, 26, serving a term for robbery, Charles W. Carlyle, a breaking and entering convict, and Ronald C. Bessler, in prison for larceny of a motor vehicle.

One of the six escapees, Wilbur Bihain, was captured on the prison grounds about five minutes after the breakout early Sunday.

Two convicts, Charles R. Wallerick, and Arlie H. Elliott, were still at large, and police were searching a wooded area near the prison. They were not believed armed.

Mrs. Swift said her husband was

Missing Wife Thought Nude Returns Clothed

CHICAGO (AP)—A green-eyed blonde who reportedly vanished while wearing only a tattoo was back home Sunday fully clothed.

Authorities closed out the missing person report after learning Mrs. Florence Hall, 22, returned home unharmed.

Police said they didn't know where Mrs. Hall had been or what she was wearing when she returned. But they had no complaints about any nude, tattooed woman strolling around the neighborhood.

Mrs. Hall and her husband, Marvin, 23, could not be reached for comment. He notified police early Saturday his wife was gone. He said that piled on the floor were all the garments he saw her wearing before he fell asleep watching television.

Education Tops All Of State Activities

This week Georgia teachers return to the classrooms in preparation for opening of schools the following week. Enrollment is expected to be more than a million pupils as the state's biggest single activity—education—gets under way for another year.

Serving these million pupils will be more than 6,000 bus drivers, around 50,000 teachers and an additional 18,000 other school employees. The business of education thus involves approximately one third of the people of the state not counting the rest of us who are dependent now and in the future on continued school progress.

Backing up this gigantic operation are the economy and the taxpayers of Georgia, who now foot 72 per cent of the total bill for elementary and secondary schools. It is an operation which today takes more than 53 per cent of the total state budget, a larger percentage than perhaps in any other state. On the other hand, Georgia ranks 46th in the amount of funds contributed by local communities with only Alabama, Hawaii, New Mexico and Delaware being behind us. This is a shameful commentary on the majority of our communities.

Our state has the largest public school enrollment as a percentage of the total civilian population of any in the nation. It has made more rapid strides in meeting the educational challenge in the past 10 years than in the rest of the state's history. Percentage-wise in increasing support for education the state ranks near the top but because of lack of local support and lower per capita incomes still is in the lower one third in total support.

According to figures of the National Education Assn., the state ranks 45th in the number of students attending private schools with only 1.5 per cent so enrolled. Yet the state ranks No. 7 in its school-age population.

Georgia has come a long way in recent years in meeting its educational challenge. We still have a long way to go. As recently as 1950 only South Carolina had fewer people 25 years or older with at least four years of high school. Only 20 per cent of our population were high school graduates and only 4.5 per cent had as much as four years of college. We ranked 48th in median school years with 7.8.

Yes, indeed, public schools are Georgia's most important activity. They must and will be kept operating.

More New Skyscrapers Herald Atlanta's Growth

Three skyscrapers are under way in Atlanta and a fourth, possibly a fifth, are in the not-yet-revealed future. Third to be begun is the 30-story Bank of Georgia building. The old structure has been cleared from the site of the bank office building. Already well along are the Commerce Building by the C&S Bank, and the Georgia Power Co. offices. These reach 20 stories.

At this point building permits in Atlanta total $82,510,813, which is $18,300,000 ahead of the same date of last year.

All of this testifies to the health of Atlanta. It remains a great transportation and distribution city and therefore moves more and more toward becoming the one great sales and merchandising center of the Southeast. Nor should we overlook the fact of the $80,000,000 in contracts which Lockheed has to build the new giant Hercules jet-prop air freight car which hauls twice as much as a railway boxcar. This will tend to make the city a major air-freight center.

All of this, plus the other stimulating assets of the city, should make us more determined than ever that neither malice nor prejudice shall be allowed to control us and destroy the future progress of Atlanta.

Here's a New Twist On Juvenile Problem

When a child has scarlet fever, the normal treatment involves isolation that others might not get the disease by contagion.

When a child turns to what we glibly call delinquency, too often the treatment is to house him with more of his kind.

There develops now a stronger and stronger belief that confinement for delinquency is wrong, that the correctional institution becomes a training school where the youngster learns how better to indulge in the crime for which he has been sentenced, where he acquires the know-how to new crime.

So the City of Provo, Utah, under a grant from the Ford Foundation, will try a new approach.

Youthful offenders will be kept at home and in school. Two hours daily five days a week they will meet at rehabilitation sessions.

Comparison will be made between alumni of the Provo school of thought and of the older school of punishment and probation.

A nation will be watching for the results.

Curbing Illegitimacy Is A Community Problem

Setting up of a special counseling unit by the Fulton County Welfare Department to cut down on illegitimate births is an experiment well worth watching.

Certainly something needs to be done. There has been a spectacular increase in the number of such births in recent years, not just in Fulton County but in Georgia and the rest of the nation.

The number has grown from 1,462 in Fulton in 1952 to an estimated 2,147 in 1958—a 46.65 per cent increase. It should be noted, however, that the number of such children receiving aid as dependent children from the welfare department has declined from 1,412 in 1952 to 619 as of June of this year—a decrease of 56.16 per cent.

Apparently there have been more adoptions and more parents willing to accept responsibility. But even so, the need for counseling to cut down on increasing illegitimacy is apparent.

There is no such program operating anywhere in the Southeast today. Richmond County, Va., has had a counseling service in operation for some time with successful results. And contrary to popular belief, only nine out of 100 illegitimate children born in that state in the last 17 years receive ADC assistance. More than 90 per cent are cared for by relatives and friends without expense to the taxpayer.

There is no particular stigma attached to illegitimacy in certain groups. This accounts for the high illegitimacy rate among low-income Negroes. Here is where a counseling service could prove most valuable.

We hope the courts, churches and other organizations will work cooperatively with the welfare department in a concerted community campaign to curb one of our most distressing moral and social evils.

Russian Publishers Gyp Authors Out of Royalties

The Russians are masters of deceit. "Fair play" are dirty words to them. While seeking to appear as apostles of peace, law and order, they refuse to respect the conventions that bind other nations of the world together in more or less harmonious relations.

Another illustration of this is the rejection by the Soviet Supreme Court of the request by a British attorney that Russian publishers be made to pay royalties to the estate of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes.

Russian publishers literally have stolen the works of Doyle. They have made millions of rubles from his books, which are popular in the Soviet Union. Yet they refuse to pay royalties to which the Doyle estate is entitled under international copyright agreement.

This is not an isolated instance. United States authors habitually are treated similarly.

When Nikita Khrushchev comes to this country, perhaps he would condescend to explain why Russian publishers are permitted thus to rob British and American authors of income to which they are entitled under law.

London Traffic Policy Stresses Safety First

The conservative, cautious British may have the better approach to the traffic safety problem.

An official statement of policy from the London Police Department puts safety first, moving traffic second and enforcement last.

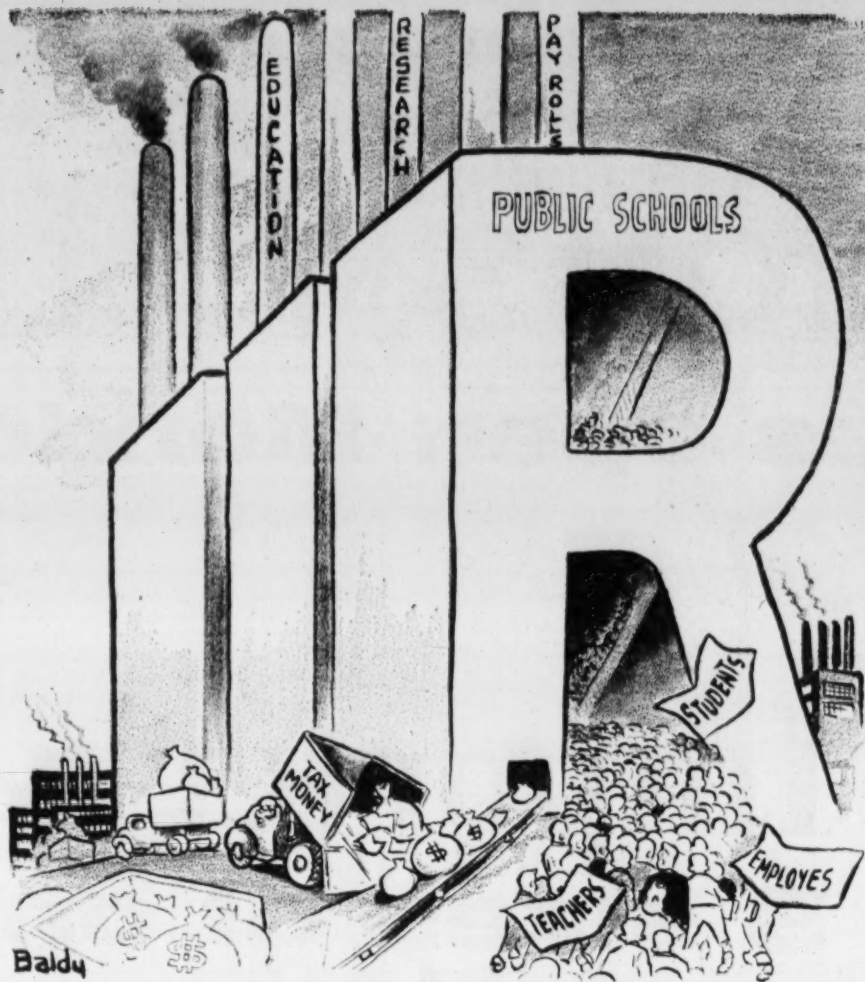

The London approach is based on more "Do's than Don'ts."

Capt. Frank Richards of the Georgia State Patrol expressed something of the same idea recently at a safety meeting in saying that we need compliance more than we do enforcement.

That is why the "Yield" sign is replacing the "Stop" sign at intersections where the view is clear. The motorist will comply the more readily when compliance seems reasonable.

For that very reason, many states are reappraising the speed limits imposed upon expressways. The ceiling that is reasonable in light of traffic load and engineering encourages obedience.

In the zone where the posted sign sets an unreasonable limit, disobedience is general.

'If It Takes Experts To Get Deadwood Off State Payroll, Then Let's Use Them'

Farmington—Our governor is making a sincere effort to straighten out the terrible financial condition left by the Griffin administration. He needs the cooperation of everyone in the state organization. Officials should be proud and happy to cooperate. Such comments as "time clock slaves" labels them as not only the worst type of leader, but as bureaucrats of the lowest order. Any man who isn't willing and eager to work 40 hours a week—eight hours a day for five days—for the livelihood of himself and family isn't worth keeping on the payroll.

If it takes these "experts from Chicago" to smoke out such as this, I'm all for them. I hope they won't be so "very ill-advised" in the future as to advocate striking honest work.

'Unmarried Mothers Are Paid Too Much'

Atlanta—I agree with Helen Tigue from Decatur about paying such fabulous prices to unmarried mothers. Why should they be paid more than a mother who is married and having financial difficulties in rearing her children?

I do not agree with her though in calling these people "ladies." Where I hail from they do not call women who have illegitimate children "ladies." Any adult female is a woman but not all are ladies.

Atlanton Says Trucks Need Safety Device

Atlanta—The juggernauts creep up the hills and lumber along the levels. Some do 40-50-60 miles per hour when 30 would be better. We know what they can do when going up a hill or on the level, but as they enter the expressways downhill helter-skelter, alas, we have too late the sad report: "The steering mechanism failed, the brakes were bad."

How long must the wheels of the juggernauts grind up the bodies of men and women before something is done about it?

A simple device used in emergencies costing no more than 35 dollars per truck could change the driver's sad report.

General's Choice Called Unlikely

Atlanta—Wedemeyer has finally released his presidential slate, although nobody seems to know why J. Edgar Hoover, McClellan, Byrd or Goldwater.

It would be hard to pick four other able public servants who would have less chance to be elected.

Is this an indication of the political profligacy of retired generals? I nominate Douglas Corrigan, Bobo Rockefeller or Dizzy Dean.

'Placing of Children Was Commendable'

Holly Springs—Each time I read about the case of Mrs. Quisenberry I can't help but let my sympathy for her get the best of me.

After all she didn't leave her children with strangers or alone as others have done nor did she leave them for the state to keep. She left her children with folks she knew and trusted. Didn't her love for them show through by these actions? I think she did what she thought was best under the circumstances. After all with nothing to tide them over while all the red tape and confusion was preventing their obtaining food, can she be blamed for seeing that they were provided for?

I sincerely hope and pray that the children won't be subjected to being separated again and that the parents can work out their problems and be with their children, as God intended.

The Blue Means Soil Is Saved

He who flies over Georgia is impressed by the pattern of ponds. Sapphire gems in an emerald setting. In front of each of those ponds is a dam and behind it, likely, is a soil conservationist like George F. McWhorter. McWhorter is a tall, slightly stooped, white-haired, strictly outdoor fellow.

He was born in Camden County, he went to school at the University of Missouri and Georgia, he lives in Milledgeville, has an office in Eatonton and is wrapped up in Rooty Creek.

Rooty Creek is a meandering Putnam County stream which rises northeast of Eatonton and empties into Lake Sinclair.

Three or four times a year, Rooty has had the bad habit of rising from its bed, damaging crops and pastures and washing nutritious Putnam County soil into Lake Sinclair.

So the farmers and the soil conservationists have set up a Watershed Work Plan. By dams, channel clearance and straightening, terracing and like methods, they are bringing obstreperous Rooty under control.

Conservationist McWhorter carried me out the other day and showed me the placid blue ponds already created by the watershed program.

The objective is to keep them that way. Soil conservation is a color preservative. Keeping the ponds, the lakes and the rivers blue means keeping the topsoil back on the land where it belongs.

A close look at Rooty Creek is a reminder that those Georgia ponds are not strictly for the fish.

OF ALL THINGS: Allen Marshall is in his 6th consecutive term as mayor of Eatonton. The tenure per term is two years. So Mayor Marshall's longevity of office still does not match that of Wm. B. Hartsfield. . . . When I paid a social call at the Monticello News, B. H. McLarty, the new owner, was checking a page proof and chucking over a classified: FOUND—Lower dental plate on the square. . . . At the Progress-Argus in Jackson, the paper had been put to bed and Editor Doyle Jones was catching up on job printing orders. Doyle had bypassed his favorite subject, football at Georgia, to write about Butts County's chance for a Hill-Burton Hospital. The county has only two doctors to serve the medical needs of 10,000 people. Editor Jones says, "The quality of mercy has a high price tag."

But he figures the community can raise its third of the half million dollars the new hospital would cost.

It is our hope that the governor will continue to implement needed reforms. The people of Georgia have already indicated their desire to see state government reorganized and relieved of waste and extravagance.

To do this job right is going to require considerable courage and fortitude. It is also going to require assistance from professionals whose experience and abilities are far more important than where they come from—Chicago, New York or Kalamazoo.

Let them bowl, governor.

HIGHLINE: It won't be long now until our teachers find out again what parents have known all summer—the expression "children are such a joy" is slightly exaggerated. — Joe Hall, Walker Co. Messenger.

Johnson, Kennedy Share Hot Spot

WASHINGTON—These last hot weeks of the 1959 session of the 86th Congress are weeks of decision for more than the great legislative issues now being debated. They are weeks of crisis also for two of the Democratic Party's principal 1960 presidential possibilities—Sens. Lyndon Johnson of Texas and John Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Johnson and Kennedy are being put painfully over the barrel. They must confront and resolve questions peculiarly involving their own 1960 prospects, their party's prospects and, of course, the interests of the country itself.

The third and fourth members of the Senate's field of presidential hopefuls, Sens. Humphrey of Minnesota and Symington of Missouri, are in no way so severely affected. In a general sense what this Congress does or does not do will, of course, vaguely touch their fortunes. But neither is so utterly tied to that record. For neither is in personal command of a major issue.

The Humphrey backers are not the congressional people. They are well typified by the identity of his campaign manager, James H. Rowe Jr., a Washington attorney who was White House assistant to FDR.

Symington's main chance—and this must be conceded even by his critics to be a very considerable chance—also will not really rest on what he does or doesn't do in the Senate. He is the indicated champion of the Truman Fair Deal. The "Truman Democrats," headed by the former President himself, are the chiefs of the Symington movement.

Johnson and Kennedy, however, are both strictly men of Congress. Their strength and their hopes must rest in the end at the Capitol and on the legislative record made there.

Kennedy has long since elected to rise or fall upon "his" one big issue, that of labor reform. Thus the present maneuvering to find an acceptable compromise between the varying Senate and House versions of a labor bill are of critical meaning to him. But so are they, too, for Johnson.

For the truth is that neither can afford to see this session end without a labor reform bill. Too, both will be far more comfortable if a civil rights bill is put upon the books now.

So circumstances have put Johnson and Kennedy perpetually on a firing line where no troops come to their relief. The other presidential aspirants are in comparative shelter, none more so than the fifth distinct Democratic possibility, Adlai Stevenson. Out of public office, Stevenson can remain far from the battle.

So, too, or at least comparatively, can both Republican aspirants, Vice President Nixon and Gov. Rockefeller of New York. Nixon is little seen around the Senate. His Moscow mission and the like have largely removed him from the bear pit of national domestic issues. Gov. Rockefeller's position has, of course, gone the same for him.

Reverend Blew Up About the Opera

The Rev. Harrison McMains was in a dither. My dictionary says that a dither is "a distracted or unbalanced state of over-excitement and mental confusion"—and that was his condition exactly. We had planned to play a few holes of golf and he was to pick me up at noon. He phoned to say he might be an hour late. In fact, "I may be four hours late," he shouted as he hung up the phone.

Finally he showed up but I could tell the mood was still with him. As he slammed to a stop he moaned, "It's about that opera. Jerome Hines shipped a freight car load of scenery from New York. They loaded it in trucks and came around to my office wanting to know where to put it."

"I phoned the theater but they did not have room to store it. I sent the trucks to a church which agreed to let us use their gymnasium but some of the pieces were 16 feet high and they couldn't get them through the door. Where can I put a freight car load of fragile opera scenery?"

"And another thing," he continued to explode. "While I was trying to figure out that scenery problem this morning, the others in our office were out on some other work and I had 16 phone calls from people wanting tickets. I told them I couldn't send tickets over the phone. If they would just write the Atlanta Christian Church, 163 Walton St., N.W., tell us what nights they wanted tickets for and enclose a check of $3 or $2 for each, the tickets would be mailed to them that day."

Finally we got to the golf course and I felt sure the sight of the lovely green grass would calm his disposition, but it didn't. I really felt sorry for my dear brother. As gently as possible I would sympathize when his ball went sailing out of bounds or into a creek, but my sympathies didn't help much.

"Another thing," he said in a loud voice. "The next time somebody decides that the Christian Council is going to sponsor an opera, that is the day I resign, quit, throw in the sponge. I didn't know it would be this much trouble."

But don't worry about our friend. He will live through it. I've seen him in dithers before. The week of Sept. 14-15 the Tower Theater will be filled every night. Jerome Hines will sing as only he can sing and the entire cast will present the Christ in a beautiful and inspiring manner. The people will say wonderful things about the opera which is entitled "I Am the Way," and will be glad because they saw and heard it.

McMains will beam and smile happily and will be saying, "This is the greatest thing Atlanta has ever had. Let's see if we can't sign it up again for next year," and everybody will live happily ever after.

Polls Are Useful In Proper Place

WASHINGTON—Quite a few people—commentators, politicians and others—are bemoaning the public opinion polls. Some even go so far as to suggest that they ought to be restrained on the ground that they are off-stage noises distracting from a delicate operation like choosing a president of the United States.

The use and prestige of political polling have not grown, as they have in recent years, in a vacuum. They have grown in acceptance and influence simultaneously with and, I suggest, in part because of the decline of presidential primaries. If the voters are not to have the opportunity to register their preference in something like a cross-section of primaries, they are going to welcome the opportunity to register their preference in the polls. And the political leaders are going to accept these voters as a significant guide to voter opinion.

My complaint is, not that we have these polls. It is that all of us—voters, politicians, columnists, dentists, and taxi-drivers—ought to be more determined not to become their prisoner.

What this country needs right now is a lot less talk about who would make a good Democratic candidate or who would make a good Republican candidate and a lot more talk about who would make a good president.

I am not suggesting that the ability to win is not of some point a valid and important consideration for a party to take into account in selecting its candidates. But we ought not to make it the first or the pervasive consideration.

Predictive polling is the least scientific and most uncertain of all the arts of measuring public opinion. The pollster begins his interview by saying: "If the election were held today, who would you vote for?" But the election isn't being held today and a thousand things can happen before it is held.

Furthermore, it is within the power of human beings who refuse to be intimidated by the polls to change the verdict. Wendell Wilkie broke through the sound-barricade of the polls even though Taft and Dewey were running well ahead before Wilkie dove into the scene. The polls showed Stassen defeating Dewey in the critical 1948 Oregon primary until Dewey went to Oregon and did something about it. In the '48 election itself the polls showed Dewey defeating President Truman but that didn't keep Truman from branding them the "sleeping polls"—and proving it.

It struck me as horrifying that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller should say that he was going to base his decision on whether to seek actively the Republican nomination by his November standing in the polls vis-a-vis Nixon. Apparently he has changed his mind. That's all to the good.

Let's keep the polls, but let's keep them in their place.

wart, 58, Route 6, Dublin; and Harvey Padgett, 13, of Dublin.

State Patrol Sgt. B. A. Snipes said the wreck occurred 4.3 miles south of Dublin at an intersection of two county roads where vision is obscured by tall crops. He said there was not a stop sign on either of the roads but that the Hester car had the right of way. No charges have been filed.

In another crash, 47-year-old Day W. Alexander, 4500 Briarcliff Rd., NE, was killed late Saturday night when his automobile left the pavement and struck a utility pole on Cheshire Bridge road. He was thrown out of the car, police said, and was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident. He was a postal employee.

CAR OVERTURNS

Martha Dodd Kenerly, 35, of Rockmart was injured fatally Saturday when the car she was in went out of control on a curve and overturned several times 2.6 miles east of Manchester on State Highway 190.

Robert Lee Boone, 38, Fitzgerald, died after his car overturned on a curve Sunday 3.5 miles south of Rochelle on Georgia Highway 215. The wreck occurred at 4:30 a.m., and Boone died at 9 a.m.

Dr. Charles Chris Benton, 40, Macon, lost control of his car on the Old River road 7.7 miles north of Macon Saturday night. He was killed when the vehicle overturned and he fell out.

Wayne Miles Page, 19, 1349 Connally Dr., East Point, was killed when his car was hit by a skidding truck on Highway 78 near Tallapoosa.

Two Southern Tech students were fatally injured in Brookhaven when their car smashed into a tree then hit a parked car. John Taffe, 21, Cordele, was killed in the wreck. Lawrence

United Appeal Opens DeKalb Headquarters

The United Appeal for Community Chest-Red Cross Monday will open its DeKalb County headquarters at 535 McDonough street in Decatur.

The office has been loaned to the United Appeal by the Decatur Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

General Chairmen Lucien Oliver, Hughes Spalding Jr. and Pollard Turman announced that more than 2,500 United Appeal volunteers are being recruited in the Decatur-DeKalb area. Their goal is $159,744 of the $3,327,314 needed to support more than 70 different Community Chest agencies and the many services of the Red Cross.

George M. Erwin is chairman of this division.

O'Donnell, 28, Sarasota, Fla., died several hours later in a local hospital.

A Georgian, Arthur Lee Shelley, 27, of Columbus, was killed in Virginia Saturday night when his car left the highway and struck a utility pole. Shelley died en route to a Richmond hospital. The accident occurred on U.S. 1-301 eight miles south of Richmond.

The traffic toll now stands at 607 for the year. The total a year ago was 567.

Prayer-Caller Falls to Death

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Sheik Nimr Abuhaja, a 70-year-old muezzin calling the Moslem faithful to prayer from the high minaret of a Mosque at Reineh, fell from the minaret to his death on Friday, it was learned Sunday. The muezzin's place was taken immediately after he stepped too near the edge of the Mosque platform and tumbled over. The substitute continued the call to prayer almost without interruption.

False Alarm at Marietta Averts Big Chemical Fire

Special to The Constitution

MARIETTA—A false alarm prevented a major fire in Marietta Sunday.

City firemen answered a call to the east side. It turned out to be false.

On their way back to the station, firemen noticed smoke several blocks away. A tank of mineral spirits was blazing outside a retail paint store.

Flames from the liquid were licking the roof of a land and auction firm next door. A door and outer wall of the paint store also was burning.

Fire Chief Howard Schaeffer said if his men hadn't spotted the flames and put them out, the blaze could have developed into a major fire when it reached the paint inside the store.

The fire apparently started in a trash barrel and ignited the tank of mineral spirits, officers said.

Poor Ol' Charlie Brown Wins Peanuts' Set of 4 Dolls

Poor ol' Charlie Brown, who has been leveled by Lucy, laced by Linus, snipped by Snoopy and smashed by Schroeder, has finally found a friend.

Mrs. John Leiper Allen, of 3360 Nancy's Creek Rd., NW, won this week's Peanuts contest with her apt description of the down-trodden lad.

Woman Nearly Itches To Death

"I nearly itched to death for 7 1/2 years. Then I found a new wonder skin cream. Now I'm happy," says D. Ward of L.A. Here's a blessed relief from tortures of vaginal itch, rectal itch, chafing, rash and eczema with an amazing new scientific formula called LANACANE. This fast-acting, stainless medicated cream kills harmful bacteria while it soothes raw, irritated and inflamed skin tissue. Stops scratching—so speeds healing. Don't suffer another minute. She said:

"I like Charlie Brown the best because—well, because he's just so Charlie Brown."

Mrs. Allen takes the set of four Peanuts dolls and has a chance for an original Schulz drawing.

Six-year-old Kathy Owen of Chipley, Fla., was chosen first runner-up. Her letter, which runs diagonally across the page, said:

"I like Linus because he pats birds on the head."

Becky Lacy, 9, of 211 Victoria St., Commerce, finds a lot of self-identification with Lucy.

"I like Lucy best," she said, "because she reminds me of me! We are not really mean little girls—we are just misunderstood."

break up the entanglement and someone slugged him across the forehead with an iron pipe.

"I had to hit the white guy with my pistol before he would let go of the Negro. Then he ran and I slapped the Negro across the face to revive him and he and I chased the man down about a block away," Somers said.

PISTOL SHOT EFFECTIVE

T. E. Atkinson, who witnessed part of the melee, said that if Somers had not come upon the scene someone might have been killed. The combatants used tire tools, iron pipes, screw drivers, wrenches, and other implements.

"They sure scattered like mad when he fired that pistol," Atkinson said.

The fight originated at the intersection of Spring street and West Peachtree place and progressed to Spring and Alexander street.

TRAFFIC DISPUTE?

Patrolman Somers said the fracas began as the white occupants of one car yelled for Negro occupants of a second car to move on as a traffic light turned green, and the Negroes yelled back.

He said the streets were clogged with traffic from night clubs and movies at the time and passersby joined in the fray, grabbing whatever objects they could for use as weapons.

The patrolman said a number of the white participants were in night dress and sported "beatnik type" Van Dyke beards.

Police identified the two men arrested in the fight as Robert Hill, 23, Negro, of 511 Bedford Pl., NE, and Robert Harrington, 19, of 275 Berean Ave., SE. Both men were booked on a charge of drunk and disorderly fighting.

'LITTLE TIGER'

Trouble is nothing new for Patrolman Somers, who is often referred to as "Little Tiger" by his fellow officers.

Somers, one of the smallest men on the Atlanta force, weighs 156 pounds and stands 5 feet 7 1/2 inches.

A week ago Somers was in similar trouble. He was patrolling his beat as a member of the force's special burglary squad and apprehended a Negro burglar. He had to use force when the burglar attempted to take away the officer's shotgun and shoot him with it.

Blast Clues Are Sifted In Catoosa

Temporary Home Of Negro Damaged

RINGGOLD (UPI) — Catoosa County Sheriff J. D. Stewart said Sunday officers are working on a "number of leads" in the dynamite bombing of two homes near Tunnel Hill late Friday night.

The explosions, which did relatively small damage, were the second and third such dynamite bombings in the county in the past three weeks. The first occurred Aug. 6 at the Summerfield Young farm near Boynton, and no arrests have been made.

300 FEET APART

The Friday night explosions, which occurred five minutes and 300 feet apart, shattered three windows and the front door at the home of poultry farmer Ralph Greeson and did less damage at another home 300 feet away, occupied temporarily by Robert Lee Davis, 41-year-old Negro farmer, and his wife and stepdaughter.

The Davis house, in a white neighborhood, was rented by Tyson Griffin Jr., a Whitfield County dairy farmer on whose farm Davis and his family are employed. The Negro family was living in the house while a home for them was being built on Griffin's farm, and Davis moved his family Saturday to the new home.

MISINFORMED?

Sheriff Stewart said he believed the dynamite must have thought that Greeson owned the home in which the Davis family was living.

Greeson was in Chattanooga on business when the explosion went off. His wife, awakened by the blast, drove to Ringgold to report it to the sheriff. She said she saw no one in the area.

Davis' stepdaughter, Wilma Pierce, 15, told officers the explosion showered her with broken glass. She said she had noticed a light-colored car parked about 75 feet from the house before the explosion.

New TV Series To Follow Ike, Soviet Premier

President Eisenhower's visit to the heads of allied governments and to Russia, and Khrushchev's visit to the United States, will be broadcast over the CBS television network.

The 14 half-hour broadcasts, sponsored by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., will start Thursday, Aug. 27, 6:30 to 7 p.m. (EST). The first program will cover the President's arrival at Bonn, West Germany.

The broadcasts will have the overall title of "Eye Witness to History."

Harvey S. Firestone Jr., chairman of the rubber corporation, said, "This series marks a new era in global mass communications and we are happy to bring what may be a turning point in world history and international understanding."

U.S. Religion Won't Impress Red Boss, Says Pastor Here

By BETSY LOCHRIDGE

When Nikita Khrushchev visits the United States, he will not be impressed with the religious life of this country or that of its leaders, the Rev. James L. Adkins predicted Sunday night in a sermon at North Atlanta Baptist Church.

"I dare say that our representative politicians, including the President, will not give a forceful witness of what Jesus Christ has done for them or what he can do for Nikita Khrushchev," declared the Rev. Mr. Adkins.

He said that the Christianity professed by our representative politicians will carry a "note of expediency, because religion is popular now—but their personal lives will belie their words."

Taking as his topic, "Should Atlanta Christians Invite Khrushchev?" the pastor said that "worse men than Khrushchev have come to Atlanta—and stayed."

Pointing to the liquor interests and corrupt politicians, the Rev. Mr. Adkins said, "at least Khrushchev is not a hypocrite. He's an atheist and the world knows where he stands."

"The Russians are practical atheists, while Americans are ideal atheists, professing the Christian faith without following it," declared the Rev. Adkins. "The moral difference between the two countries is not worth splitting hairs over," he added.

He predicted that "unless the United States turns to God wholeheartedly," he will use Russia to destroy the way of life we know now in America.

"In 56 years Communists have done more to spread their gospel than Christians have done in 2,000 years," said the Rev. Adkins. "There are now about 700 million professing Christians and over 900 million under Communist domination."

Citing Constitution editor Ralph McGill's statements about the vitality of the Evangelical Baptist movement in Russia, he said that "at least Christians are allowed to preach the gospel and have meeting places of worship in Russia."

"In certain countries, groups of Christians are treated as bad or worse than they are in Russia," he added, citing Spain and Colombia as examples.

Thousands of bosses

HOW'D YOU LIKE to have 134,770 bosses?

That's the number the Georgia Power Company has. What's more, they're the real bosses. They are the men and women whose purchases of stock in our company and its parent firm, The Southern Company, have made them shareholders—and owners—of the Georgia Power Company.

These 134,770 people follow no set pattern in residence, age, or occupation. Housewives and lawyers, tobacco farmers and peach growers, young newlyweds and senior citizens are all represented among the folks who own the Georgia Power Company.

Thousands more are indirect investors in our company. For example, when banks and life insurance firms accept your money, they must invest it wisely. Much of it goes into electric power company bonds and stocks.

In doing a good job of providing plenty of dependable and low-cost electricity for you, we are also doing a good job for our thousands of owners.

Bainbridge Chapter of the Blind Calls Charges of Unionism Untrue

The Bainbridge chapter of the Georgia Federation of the Blind has called charges made by the superintendent of Georgia Factories for the Blind "unjust and certainly untrue."

The action was taken after the superintendent, Harold Emlet, accused the federation of "acting like a union" and stirring up unrest. Emlet's charges came after 20 members of the factory for blind workers in Griffin called for his resignation. They also asked at that time for the resignations of Hugh Terrell, superintendent of their plant, and John Bridges, sales manager.

The Bainbridge answer to Emlet's charge was contained in a three-page resolution. The chapter denied the Georgia Federation functioned like a labor union. It denied, too, statements by Emlet to the effect that blind workers received a state subsidy and that the plants were operating with no unnecessary layoffs.

"Mr. Emlet has made it clear that he opposes and abhors the very people, the blind workers, he is paid to assist and rehabilitate," the Bainbridge chapter said.

Port's 1st Cargo

The first cargo moved across the new Brunswick-Glynn County dock Sunday, and Brunswick officials cited the city's port development as an "economic boost to all of Georgia."

Thousands of Brunswick residents lined the dock to see the freighter President Pierce take on a cargo for foreign ports.

Officials termed the opening a milestone in efforts to revive shipping through the Brunswick harbor, 60 years ago one of the world's busiest.

To Air School Data

A special Bleckley County grand jury, formed to study school conditions in the area, reported it will take the "facts on the school situation" to the people.

The county Board of Education is scheduled to meet with the State Department of Education in mid-September to explain how $259,000 has accumulated in school building funds.

The Bleckley board suggested in a statement that "the people allow their elected or appointed officials to run the affairs of the schools."

Poultry Parley Opens

Speakers from 11 different states are scheduled to appear on programs at Georgia's fourth annual Poultry Institute, Monday through Thursday, at the Rock Eagle 4-H Center near Eatonton. A business meeting of the Georgia Egg Assn. and election of officers is slated for the opening day.

Dublin Man Returned in Death Hoax

DUBLIN, Ga. (UPI) — L. E. Pettis, a salesman accused of staging his own "death" in order to "get away from it all," was returned here Sunday from Texas to face charges of abandoning his wife and four children.

Pettis was arrested Aug. 13 at Irving, Tex., on a warrant sworn out here by Laurens County Sheriff Carlus Gay. He had been missing since early June and was assumed dead.

Officers charged that Pettis carefully staged his disappearance to make it seem that he had drowned in the Oconee River near here. His car and boat trailer were parked on the bank of the river, and his motorboat was found in the water June 4.

He was arrested at the home of his parents and brother at Irving, Tex., and told Detective Paul Barber he still loves his wife and children back home in Asheboro, N.C. But he said he had to "get away from it all."

Sheriff Gay and a deputy brought him here to face the abandonment charges. No date was set.

Haiti Catholic Bishops Decry Brutality in Church Invasion

By HOMER BIGART

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)
PORT-AU-PRINCE — The Roman Catholic bishops of Haiti have sent a strong demarche to the government protesting police brutality in dispersing the congregation at Notre Dame Cathedral last Tuesday.

This protest, delivered to Foreign Minister Louis Mars Thursday, remained unanswered Sunday. Meanwhile, all masses at the cathedral were attended by large crowds of worshippers in an apparent demonstration of sympathy for Archbishop Francois Poirier, who has been threatened with arrest by the regime of President Francois Duvalier.

Months of accumulated tension between church and state erupted Tuesday night when police armed with rifles, submachine guns and sticks invaded the cathedral and broke up a throng of 800 to 1,000 who had gathered in prayerful protest against the expulsion from Haiti of two French priests.

Church sources said more than 40 worshippers were arrested, including an 83-year-old woman, and that four or five persons were still in jail Sunday. It was charged that the police, after driving out the more timid of the congregation, provoked fights by pushing and slapping those who remained in their pews.

Church sources confirmed that the root cause of tension was the nagging resentment of the regime against the presence of a preponderant number of French-born priests among the Catholic clergy and the fact that three of the four bishops are French.

But the same sources pointed out that the number of Haitian priests had risen to 110 against 180 French priests.

Officers arrived at the archiepiscopal palace two weeks ago with orders to arrest the archbishop for "crimes against the state." The archbishop sternly told the officers he could not obey

Atlantan Shot, His Host Arrested As 2 'Play Around' with Pistol

A Negro man was wounded Sunday afternoon while he and a companion were "playing around" with a .22-caliber pistol, police were told.

Edgar Fears, 50, of 369 Eugenia St. SW, was admitted to Grady Hospital with a bullet wound in the right shoulder and his friend, Willie Watts, 40, of 467 Whitehall St. SW, was booked on suspicion of shooting another.

Fears told police that he had gone to Watts' home and the two men began "playing around" with a small pistol.

Fears said he pulled the trigger once and nothing happened and he then handed the gun to Watts. Watts said he then pulled the trigger and the bullet struck his companion.

Man Orbit Is Deferred By Failures

By GLADWIN HILL

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)
LOS ANGELES—The course of rocket experimentation on the Pacific coast is providing mounting evidence that the nation's "Man in Space" project is much farther away than people think.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has seven men in intensive training to make the trip, but the necessary "hardware" is proving less tractable in its development. It was originally suggested that a man might be put in space by 1961.

Amid the flurry of spectacular rocket launching on both coasts in the last 10 days, little note was taken of the results bearing most closely on the "Man in Space" program: the repeated failure to retrieve from orbit any payload capsule, let alone one containing a living creature.

AIM IS 99 PCT.

Dr. Werner von Braun, one of the nation's top rocket scientists, observed here a few days ago that before a man can be dispatched on a rocket voyage, the possibility of returning him intact must be demonstrated enough to make success 99 per cent certain.

The present uncertainty of such success has been obscured by recent successful recoveries of rocket nose-cones intact. But these involved only shore atmospheric "re-entry" flights rather than real "space" trips in and out of orbit.

NONE SUCCESSFUL

On recent elementary recovery-from-orbit efforts at Vandenberg Air Force Base, the "West Coast Cape Canaveral" 175 miles north of Los Angeles, scientists have put the chances of success at only one in several hundred—and none has been successful yet.

Recovery-from-orbit experiments are now centered in the Discoverer rocket program at Vandenberg. This is a project of the Defense Department's advanced Research Projects Agency, which is intended to contribute vital engineering experience to the man-in-space project.

The officers returned later and were met by the charge d'affaires who said the nunciature refused to allow the archbishop to answer the summons. From that moment the archiepiscopal palace was placed under military guard.

Then the government abruptly suspended the arrest order pending clarification from the Vatican on "the rights of the temporal power" contained in the concordat of 1860.

The archbishop considers himself a prisoner in his palace until the regime rescinds the arrest order. He did not go to the cathedral Sunday but said mass in a private chapel in his palace.

For two days the official radio "Voice of the Republic of Haiti" has been attacking the archbishop, saying "We are not against priests, only against bad priests and we are protecting the sovereignty of the state."

Steel Ready for the U.S. To Act, Negotiator Says

Industry Prefers Bargaining, But Would Accept Use of T-H

(Copyright 1959 by The New York Times Co.)
NEW YORK—The chief negotiator for the steel industry said Sunday that the companies are prepared for government invocation of the Taft-Hartley Act to help end the 40-day-old steel strike.

At the same time, R. Conrad Cooper, the negotiator, let it be known that the steel companies would not welcome the appointment of a public fact-finding board to deal with the dispute.

Cooper said companies would prefer to settle the strike by direct collective bargaining, but would want Taft-Hartley intervention if bargaining failed.

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, President Eisenhower could declare the steel strike a national emergency and order the walkout ended for an 80-day period.

The President has refused to intervene thus far, making it clear that he would not do so until he thought the national welfare was endangered.

As to when the current strike would end, Cooper said: "I wish I knew."

These views of the chief of the negotiating team for the 12 major producers were expressed on "New York Forum," program of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The industry spokesman's remarks were made on the eve of a resumption of negotiations at 10 a.m. Monday in the Roosevelt Hotel here. However, the talks will deal only with secondary issues, not with wages.

Wage talks will take place on Wednesday, when David J. McDonald, the president of the union, and Arthur J. Goldberg, its chief counsel, rejoin the negotiations after a two-week absence.

Public schools and public school teachers have made America what it is—and it is up to them to see that it is preserved, DeKalb County School Supt. Jim Cherry told 300 new teachers at an orientation meeting.

In welcoming the new teachers to the system, Cherry reminded them that teaching, despite any glamor it may have been given, is still a "hard, sweaty job."

Schools open in the county Monday week. Registration will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday for elementary pupils and Tuesday and Wednesday for high school pupils. School buses will not operate those days.

The first system-wide faculty meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday at Avondale High.

U.S. Report On Fallout Reassuring

By JOHN W. FINNEY

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The joint congressional committee on atomic energy Sunday presented a generally reassuring picture of the fallout hazard from past atomic tests but warned of potential danger if intensive nuclear testing is resumed.

Man's exposure to radiation from tests already conducted will be "relatively small" compared with the natural radiation to which everyone is exposed and in comparison with proposed safety levels, the committee said.

If testing were resumed in the same intensive pattern of the past five years, however, the committee cautioned, the concentrations of radioactivity in human bodies could rise close enough to the proposed safety limits "to suggest that a hazard to the world's population could result."

EXAMINED HAZARDS

These mixed conclusions of reassurance and caution were contained in a committee report summarizing the findings of three days of scientific testimony this spring before a subcommittee.

The 42-page committee report represents one of the most authoritative evaluations yet presented on a subject which has provoked widespread debate and conflicting and confusing claims among scientists, confusion and concern among the general public, and worldwide pressure for disarmament. The report is based on the testimony of 30 scientific experts who specialized in various phases of fallout and radiation, as well as statements by other scientists.

NO SWEEPING CONCLUSIONS

Significantly, the report contains no sweeping general conclusions of the damage which can be expected from tests thus far—a restraint which shows there is still great uncertainty over the extent of bodily damage from radiation. Rather, the report, following the tenor of the scientific testimony, approached the hazard question by emphasizing repeatedly that the radiation received from fallout is still only a small fraction of that received from natural radiation in the earth and atmosphere.

While the intended impact of such a comparison was reassuring, the report did raise new potential problems and hazards in the fallout picture. It placed new emphasis on the problem of "hot spots" where the radioactivity levels are abnormally high, focused new attention on the potential long-term genetic damage which could be caused by radioactive carbon-14 created in atomic and hydrogen bomb explosions.

'Killer' Bill Ruled Out, Labor Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Several senators fired back Sunday at AFL-CIO President George Meany for predicting that Congress would pass a "killer" labor reform bill in its efforts to wipe out corruption in some unions.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), denouncing "unrestrained sloganeering," said cries that Congress was about to pass a "killer" bill were no more valid than charges in 1947 that the Taft-Hartley Act would be a "slave labor bill."

"This business of shouting wolf too often has caught up with those who have been doing all the shouting," he said.

Keating joined such senators as Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rackets Committee and Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) in predicting that Congress would pass a strong bill but that legitimate trade unionists had nothing to fear.

Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) joined in criticizing Meany's statement Thursday at the meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council at Unity House, Pa. He said there was nothing in pending legislation to cause concern among "honest, law abiding unions."

Several senators, appearing on weekend television programs, said that House-Senate conferees trying to work out a compromise reform bill, had been swamped with letters and telegrams demanding a strong measure.

McClellan said in this connection that the people "have let their congressmen know beyond any doubt that they expect legislation at this session." He predicted Congress would pass a bill to meet the challenge posed by disclosures of the rackets committee.

PHOTO OF PRINCESS MARGARET STIRS UP RUCKUS IN BRITISH PRESS
Birthday Picture With Rocking Horses, Gifts of Childhood, Drives Varied Comment

ROCKING AT 29—WITH A HORSE

British Pass Up Meg Nursery Shot

LONDON (AP)—For a girl in her 30th year, Princess Margaret shows an uncommon yen for her nursery playthings.

An unusual official photograph Sunday showed her sitting with a wistful smile between two wooden rocking horses.

The British press, which dotes on pictures of the pretty princess, refused to go for this one. They ignored or panned it, except for the Sunday Times.

The rocking horse theme was thought up by court photographer Tony Armstrong Jones, who took the picture to mark Margaret's 29th birthday last Friday. It seemed Margaret never would have agreed to the nursery setting unless she liked the idea.

She has owned one of the horses since early childhood. The other belongs to her sister, Queen Elizabeth II.

In the photograph, the rocking horses are largely reduced to silhouettes allowing the greatest light to fall on the central figure of Margaret. She is looking steadfastly ahead in a profile study.

Official pictures released on her birthday showed the princess in a variety of poses.

The court held up release of the nursery picture until Sunday so Sunday newspapers would have something new to print. But the papers were unhappy with Jones' artistry. The mass circulation Sunday Pictorial, which specializes in photographic journalism, said sourly:

"This sombre, largely out-of-focus study seems a poor way of picturing a beautiful girl. We wish there were another to give you a better idea of what she is like."

The News of the World cut out the rocking horses altogether. The rest of the papers just did not print the picture at all.

Except the Sunday Times. It was staunchly loyal. Its columnist Attilius reproduced the picture in full at the top of his page and called it "one of the best I have ever seen of her."

Wedemeyer Favors FBI Chief in '60

Francis X. Bushman, onetime matinee idol, was one of the few oldtimers at the party. Now 76, he said: "I only wish there were more of us here."

DOZEN FLAPPERS

Most of the guests were costumed to resemble early-day stars. Several imitations of Charlie Chaplin were attempted. There were Draculas (Bela Lugosi), a Tom Mix and a Buck Jones and a few dozen flapper girls.

The hostess, Mrs. Morris Markowitz, was dressed as Nazimova. Markowitz, a co-owner of the garden before its final sale, came as Cecil B. De Mille.

At one point, a bystander remarked: "They say someone used to fall into the pool every night."

Two young women then volunteered to be tossed in. They were. Shortly after 2 a.m. the ball was over and the guests went home. The Garden of Allah was empty.

Girl Slain In Gotham Gang War

Violence Breaks 2-Year Truce

NEW YORK (AP)—A Negro girl was shot to death and six other youths injured Sunday night in gang warfare that erupted on Manhattan's lower East Side for the first time in two years.

Police believed the trouble started when one gang, the Sportsmen, whose members are mostly Negroes, invaded the area claimed by another gang, the Forsythe Street Boys, made up mostly of Puerto Ricans.

The two groups clashed headon at Forsythe street. Manuel Clinton, 11, was shot in the face, and Julio Rosario, 14, was stabbed in the back. Police said the Clinton boy was an innocent bystander. Both hospitalized in serious condition.

FIRE INTO GROWD

Half an hour later and 13 blocks away, a fusillade was fired from a passing car into a crowd gathered to hear a street preacher.

Theresa Gee, 15, dropped dead on the sidewalk, a bullet in the back of her head. Two others were wounded by the spray of bullets—Ernestine Singleton, 15, and Robert Combs, 16. They were taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Police said Miss Gee was the girl friend of the president of the Sportsmen, Frank Boyd, 16.

A few minutes later, two residents of a nearby building saw two youths throw a newspaper-covered seven-shot automatic rifle into an alley and flee.

SHOT IN HIP

About the same time, Luis Santos, 17, was shot in the left hip. Police found him staggering along a sidewalk and sent him to Bellevue Hospital.

Almost simultaneously, Luis Morales, 15, was stopped by five Negro youths who asked if he was a member of the Forsythe street boys. He denied gang affiliation but he was attacked and badly beaten. He was questioned by police and sent to Bellevue.

Bad Ham Blamed In 2nd Poisoning

ATTICA, Ind. (UPI)—Officials said Sunday an improperly cured ham served to 1,880 persons at a company outing apparently caused Indiana's second mass food poisoning case within a week.

Eighty-five persons were stricken with violent stomach cramps late Saturday night at a picnic grounds near this small, central Indiana town.

All but 14 were released after treatment in hospitals at Williamsport and Lafayette.

Another 20 persons were hospitalized near West Allis, Wis., after collapsing from apparent food poisoning at the Wisconsin State Fair Saturday, but 13 were released after treatment.

R. G. Herman, supervisor at County General Hospital, said that "from all indications it appears as though it was food poisoning which caused the attacks."

Indiana Health Commissioner Andrew Offutt said that in view of the second mass poisoning within a week, picnickers should be especially careful in preparing foods for outings.

Only a week ago, about 800 persons at a Miles Laboratories picnic at Angola, Ind., were poisoned by ham that was certified as contaminated by state health officials.

The remains of all foods served at the Attica picnic were immediately frozen and sent to state health offices in Indianapolis for tests.

J. F. Reilly, chairman of the board of Radio Material Co., Attica, said that every precaution had been taken to prevent food poisoning among employees at his firm's picnic.

"As near as we can tell, it must have been an improperly cured ham, one that didn't cure near the bone," Reilly said.

U.S. Study Of Russian Up 25-Fold

By BESS FURMAN

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Only 16 high schools in the United States offered courses in Russian when the Soviet satellites went up 22 months ago. More than 400 schools will teach the language this September.

The sharp change was reported Sunday by Helen B. Yakobson, who has been tracking the course of education in the Russian language for the government's Office of Education.

Mrs. Yakobson, who is head of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literature at George Washington University here, began her task voluntarily soon after the Soviet sputniks captured world attention in October, 1957.

She said Sunday that a year after the satellites, last fall, the number of schools offering courses in Russian had jumped from 16 to 114. By the second semester of the last school year it had risen to more than 300. This fall it is expected to exceed 400.

In addition, 27 junior high schools have installed Russian courses.

"HERE'S THE MOUNTAIN WHERE WE GOT STUCK"
Marshall Neill Points Out Road to Daughters Dorothy, Marsha and Mrs. Neill

They Finally Came 'Round Mountain

of the Hapeville Methodist Church. Some of us decided to drive to the top of Brasstown Bald.

"We went up the paved road and messed around up on top. Then I saw this sign that said something like 'Scenic Route to Young Harris—Six Miles—Open Only When Dry.' It looked dry to me, and I'm one of those fellows who will try anything that looks like adventure. So we started down."

In the car with Neill were his wife, Hazel; his two daughters, Dorothy, 11, and Marsha, 19, and Marshall Miller.

Neill continued his story:

"The road looked all right at first. But once you are committed, there is no turning back—not on that road."

"We twisted and turned down the mountain—getting out every now and then to move logs and rocks. Then we came to our first mud hole—the road wasn't dry, I found out."

"We made it through the first mud hole and then we got on to within about three miles of the bottom and hit the second hole. There had been a tractor in there and had churned the mud up until I knew it was impassable.

"Well, I told the family, 'Here is where we all walk!'"

Mrs. Neill interrupted: "All of us but Marshall had been walking for most of the distance. It was so narrow and so dangerous looking that I felt we'd be safer out of the car. So we walked and Marshall just eased the car down the mountain."

After the Neills had walked down the mountain for a piece they met a jeep coming up. In the jeep were John Cable Jr., one of the "spark-plugs" in the movement to get the "scenic route" improved, W. K. Dean, Q. D. Nichols and Jerry Hood.

CHAINS TOO SHORT

The folks from Young Harris went up the mountain with the Neills until they came to the car. Neill got in and drove as far into the mud as he could. The chains on the jeep were too short to reach his car.

Neill said that Cable used an ingenious method of "splicing" the chain with a 20-foot sapling to make it reach the stuck car.

The Neills finally got down the mountain. It was about 10:30 Saturday night.

The Neills' record of being the only car down the road didn't last long. Just a few hours behind them came Mr. and Mrs. Ben Haisten and their children, of Jackson, in another car.

PLAN WAGON TRIP

The folks in Young Harris are still planning their wagon trip up the mountain on the tentative date of Oct. 17. "We want to publicize the drive enough so that the state will fix it," Cable said. "But if the state won't do it, we are going to do something to make it passable."

Neill warned any adventurous souls who decide to make the trip: "Don't go in a modern car. I lost my muffler, one strip of chrome, bent another chrome strip and bent a fender. And I consider myself lucky."

Neill said the Young Harris people assured him that they would take down the optimistic sounding sign down from the top of Brasstown Bald.

Cigarette-Smoking Hen Catches Thief

WIENER NEUSTADT, Austria (UPI)—A farmer was charged by police recently with stealing a hen. He denied the charge when questioned. But the owner of the hen asked the police for a lighted cigarette, which he placed in the hen's mouth. The hen took a big satisfied puff. It was the thief's bad luck that he had taught the hen how to smoke, and the owner knew it.

Red Rebels Push Deep Into Laos

tending north, with Viet Nam and Red China bordering it on three sides.

2,500 REBELS ESTIMATED

Brig. Gen. Ouane Rathikone, Laotian army commander, estimated last week that 2,500 rebels, operating in small bands of 150 to 200 men each, had infiltrated deep into Sam Neua and Phong Saly, and that another 1,000 were scattered in Luang Prabang and Savannakhet provinces to the south.

Most of the fighting has been skirmishing.

Two aircraft, a C46 and C47, chartered by the U.S. government under its aid program, went into service with the royal Laotian armed services transporting supplies to Sam Neua. The planes, with American and Chinese pilots, were rented from the Nationalist Chinese commercial airline.

Under the 1954 Geneva agreement, which halted the Indochinese war, the Laotian army was limited to eight planes.

All supplies to hard-pressed Sam Neua must be delivered by air, and the army's pilots have been flying to the exhaustion point. All Laotian commercial planes previously had been commandeered for the task of delivering supplies to isolated outposts.

PARATROOPERS FLOW IN

In addition to supplies, the army has been flying in hundreds of paratroopers to Muong Pen, a jungle stronghold in Sam Neua province similar to the battle-ground of Dien Bien Phu in North Viet Nam where the French lost the Indochinese war.

The rebels are reported to have virtual control of about 20 per cent of Sam Neua.

8 Prisoners Killed As Fire Sweeps Jail

smoke masks to go in to release the prisoners.

The firemen—James F. Smith, Albert DeCarlo, Roger Barney and Nicholas Bouzotis—had just reached the top of the stairs, when Chief Roe said an explosion blew them back down again. All four firemen were burned, and the keys fireman Smith was carrying dropped and was lost.

SCREAM FOR HELP

The firemen rigged chains from their trucks to the screens and bars across the jail windows, and wrenched one open on the west side of the ground floor while the prisoners screamed for help.

Meantime, Under Sheriff Robert J. Miller arrived from his home two miles away. Miller made his way through the smoke to a safe and got another set of keys.

With fire hoses playing water on him, Miller opened first one set of cells and then another on the ground floor, where 34 prisoners were released.

Miller and a fireman then went to the second floor, under the drenching streams from the hoses. They were unable to get to the east front, housing the seven prisoners who along with Petersen were later found dead.

VICTIM SAVES OTHERS?

Louis Crist, a Toms River company fire chief, said the seven men had been yelling, and had been counseled by firemen outside to lie on the floor.

Miller said one of the men who died had apparently saved the inmates in the adjoining cell block by closing a door between the two blocks. Three women prisoners on the second floor also survived because of a closed door, although their quarters were next to the padded cell.

The remaining upstairs prisoners were eventually rescued when wrecking equipment burned through sections of the barred windows 12 and 15 inches wide.

7 SUFFOCATED

There was no immediate explanation for the fire in the padded cell, which appeared to be about 7 feet high by 6 feet wide and 8 feet long.

Only Petersen was burned to death, the fire chief Roe said. The other seven dead prisoners appeared to have suffocated from smoke. Their cell block was about 30 feet from the padded cell, with the open stairwell between.

Sheriff Roe said he and his predecessor had been calling for a new jail for 10 years. The present jail was built about 1925, he said.

Selected Oil Stocks Are Good Buys; Big Firms Liked in Electrical Field

panies seem quite willing to live and let live, so far as price is concerned. This helps maintain profits.

There is also considerable regulation of the industry to prevent overproduction and a glutting of the market. This helps keep prices—and profits—stable for U.S. producers.

There are a few clouds on the oil horizon, to be sure. There is the increasing competition from natural gas, particularly in home heating. Also, there is the very real question of whether the United States may not be approaching the saturation point in automobile gasoline consumption, with the pendulum about to swing back toward smaller cars with lower-compression engines.

Other danger signs are the rising nationalism in the Middle East and other foreign oil-producing areas, where local rulers are demanding a higher share in the profits on American oil investments. Then, as in almost every other industry, there are very substantial increases in production and distribution costs.

PROFITS TO CONTINUE

All these and other cautionary signs are very real and in point. They certainly are worth the attention and consideration of every investor. But I don't think they upset my basic point that oil is extremely profitable and will continue to be so for quite a while.

Granted we should invest in oils, which companies should we choose?

This industry is an extremely complicated one. There are companies with huge oil fields and markets outside the United States, and others which produce and distribute entirely within the United States. Some companies concentrate on bringing the oil up from the ground, others just refine and sell it. Some firms have gone deeply into natural gas production and into chemicals and allied products; others are sticking to oil.

But if this wide variety creates problems, it also provides an advantage. It's possible in this industry to get exactly the type of investment you want. There are good oil companies with high yields and small growth — and good companies with low yields but substantial growth. The oil industry, in short, can give you yield or growth, conservative safety or speculative risk, or any combination.

In general you're better off

"Laxatives didn't help"

If lack of bulk is causing irregularity, read this message from Mrs. Sylvia Roden, Miami, Florida. This is what she writes:

"Laxatives didn't help my constipation. Finally I tried Kellogg's All-Bran. I can't say enough good things about it."

Kellogg's All-Bran brings pleasant relief to millions when laxative drugs fail because it is a bulk-forming cereal food. Just a half-cup serving with milk gives you all the good food bulk you need each day for consistent, natural regularity.

Try Kellogg's All-Bran for 10 days—see if it doesn't work for you, too.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

with one of the five or six top companies in the industry.

The biggest oil company in the United States is, of course, the fabled Standard of New Jersey. Jersey has everything—reserves, distribution, refining, holdings and markets in every part of the world. Shutting down operations in any one area of the world wouldn't hurt Jersey too much, since it could simply increase output elsewhere.

All these things are true, though perhaps to a lesser extent, about the other big companies. So if you want to invest the easy way, Jersey or Texas or Royal Dutch or Standard of California or one of the other big companies is the answer. Your selection will depend on the prices and yields at the time.

But if you want to shop around you can frequently find a more attractive buy. For example, shares in Superior Oil of California soared from $101 in 1946 to the $2,000 area in 1959. The company has paid no dividends since September 1955, but each share of stock stands for tremendous reserves of oil in the ground.

How does the investor spot these "sleeper" companies? I can't give you a sure-fire recipe, but here are some of the questions I check:

1. How good are the company's reserves? How many barrels of oil does it have in the ground? How many barrels per share? Are these high-quality reserves which could be produced at low cost?

2. What type of exploration program does the company have? Does it show imagination and aggression in going into new areas?

3. What kind of refining facilities does the company have? Are they new, modern, efficient?

4. How aggressively and intelligently does the company market its products to the consumer? Because of the general uniformity in price and quality, gasoline merchandising is highly competitive. Therefore it is perfectly sensible for the investor to be influenced to some extent by his own personal appraisal of the companies' marketing techniques.

How do the service stations of a given company perform their functions—are the rest rooms clean, are their touring services good? How aggressively does a company push the use of credit cards, each of which means a captive customer?

5. How good is the company's collateral natural gas operation? An oil company with good gas reserves deserves a plus mark on your list.

All this is the sort of information you must get in evaluating individual companies. But you must go further. Oil is so deeply involved in national and international politics that you must keep abreast of developments there, too.

Because Mideast oil, despite heavy shipping charges, can be sold at prices below those that must be charged for oil from any other section of the world, companies operating in the Middle East—Socony, Standard of New Jersey, Texas, Standard of California, Royal Dutch, Gulf, British Petroleum—have over the years shown the best profits and rates of growth but there is some doubt now, in view of the stirrings in the Mideast, whether this bonanza will continue.

The stocks of U.S. producers tend to rise when a foreign crisis threatens overseas supplies. When the Suez crisis cut down Middle East oil shipments to Europe, U.S. companies were called upon to expand production and supply the starving European market—and profited enormously.

To sum up, oil stocks have been an excellent type of investment, and there is no sign that they will not continue to be so. You invest in oil as you do in any other stock—when it seems cheap; when other investors, for no good reason, pass it by; when the statistics are right; and when there are few major clouds on the horizon.

Perhaps even more than oil, the electrical and electronics industry, with its multiple marvels, epitomizes the pell-mell advance of our age.

Here is a dynamic, expanding field for investment. But there is a multitude of investors with severely wounded pocketbooks who can testify that it is also a field in which the unwary or uninformed can get hurt.

For despite its rapid rate of expansion in the past and its obviously great future, the electrical and electronics industry is presently the scene of fierce competitive struggle.

For discussion purposes let's separate this tremendous industry into two branches. The electrical branch covers a lot of consumer and industrial products from the light bulb through household appliances and on up to the largest electrical motor.

The electronics branch covers the more futuristic items—brains and computers, weapons systems, control systems, radar in all its forms, the automatic devices that have taken so much of the drudgery out of office and factory work.

Most firms are either in the more prosaic electrical branch or in the pioneering electronics branch. A few—General Electric, RCA and Westinghouse, for example—cover the whole field and are the industry giants.

WIDE TV FLOP

In the electrical branch one has to go no further than the TV set producers to find an example of the difficulties in settling on an investment in this volatile industry. In a three-year period half the TV set manufacturers threw in the sponge, a development that may have set a record for the swift downfall of a major industrial boom.

Nor is the electronics branch immune to abrupt changes in fortune. Early in 1957 there was much talk about business plans to switch over to computers, electronic brains, and other automation devices.

But the 1957-58 recession cut back these grandiose business plans. Companies decided they could make do a bit longer with their old equipment. As a result, instead of the expected scramble for computers and related machines, there was overproduction and a sales drop. Profits of many electronics firms fell sharply. The long-term growth potential was there—and still is. The time just wasn't right.

My advice in this field is similar to that which I have given for a number of other industries: If you want to be safe, buy the big, diversified companies—General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, International Business Machines, Minneapolis-Honeywell. If you are willing to take a little more risk on the chance of more spectacular profits, look around for a small company that is on the rise.

The big, diversified companies are better able to stand the obsolescence and product changes; they can better meet the fierce competition. The prosaic, always-in-demand items in their catalogs serve to cushion possible losses from riskier items.

BIT OF ADVICE

Should you decide, say, that the big companies are priced unreasonably at the moment and you want to explore a cheaper stock with profit potential, I have one bit of advice: Stay out of the small electrical—as distinct from the electronic—companies.

You can make a general assumption that the smaller electrical firms are not usually going to do well against the big established companies, at least not well enough to warrant taking a chance on them. Since this is a consumer-oriented field, well-established brand names, big advertising budgets, elaborate distribution systems, and diversified lines are the important things.

But in the electronics branch the little company has a special appeal. With the chief buyers being the government and business firms, performance is more important in this area than publicity. Research and know-how count more than brand names.

While it would be difficult in most industries to become an important company without millions of dollars of initial capital, there are scores of electronics companies which have managed to make money and become important on a comparatively small initial investment.

But if you want to invest in a smaller electronics company, you must be sure to get to know the company very well—the management situation, the product mix, any special devices or research programs that may hold promise. You must avoid rumor and self-serving publicity.

To sum up, put aside the idea that just because the word electronics seems to typify the wave of the future sure profits lie in every corner. In this field you can lose money just as permanently and perhaps a lot more quickly than in many of the less glamorous old-line industries.

Ellender Vows Siege on Tough Rights Bill grams as Keating and Hennings have proposed.

"For my own part, I am prepared to remain in Washington and to participate in Senate debate until January of next year if it becomes necessary," Ellender said in a broadcast recorded for a New Orleans radio station.

Civil rights legislation has been bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee by Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and other Southern opponents, but the issue could be forced to a showdown by the Hennings and Keating maneuvers.

Their strategy is to bypass the committee by offering civil rights bills as amendments to other legislation called up for action in the Senate.

"The civil rights opponents brought this on themselves by their filibuster in the Judiciary Committee," Keating said. He referred to his move to attach civil rights legislation to a House-passed measure exempting peanuts grown for boiling from acreage allotments and marketing controls.

Jackson's No. 1 in Amateurs

Loan Nine Axes
Wooddall, 7-5

Jackson Loan captured the City Amateur baseball championship for the third time with a 7-5 decision over Wooddall Mobile Homes Sunday afternoon at Ponce de Leon Park.

Bobby Hines scattered five hits for the victory. He aided his own cause with a two-run triple in the big five-run second inning.

Three doubles — by Jimmy Nisewonger, Jesse Smith and Ed Edwards — and singles by Charlie Brannon and Ed Reagan preceded Hines' smash in the deciding frame. Jackson Loan added single runs in the third and seventh.

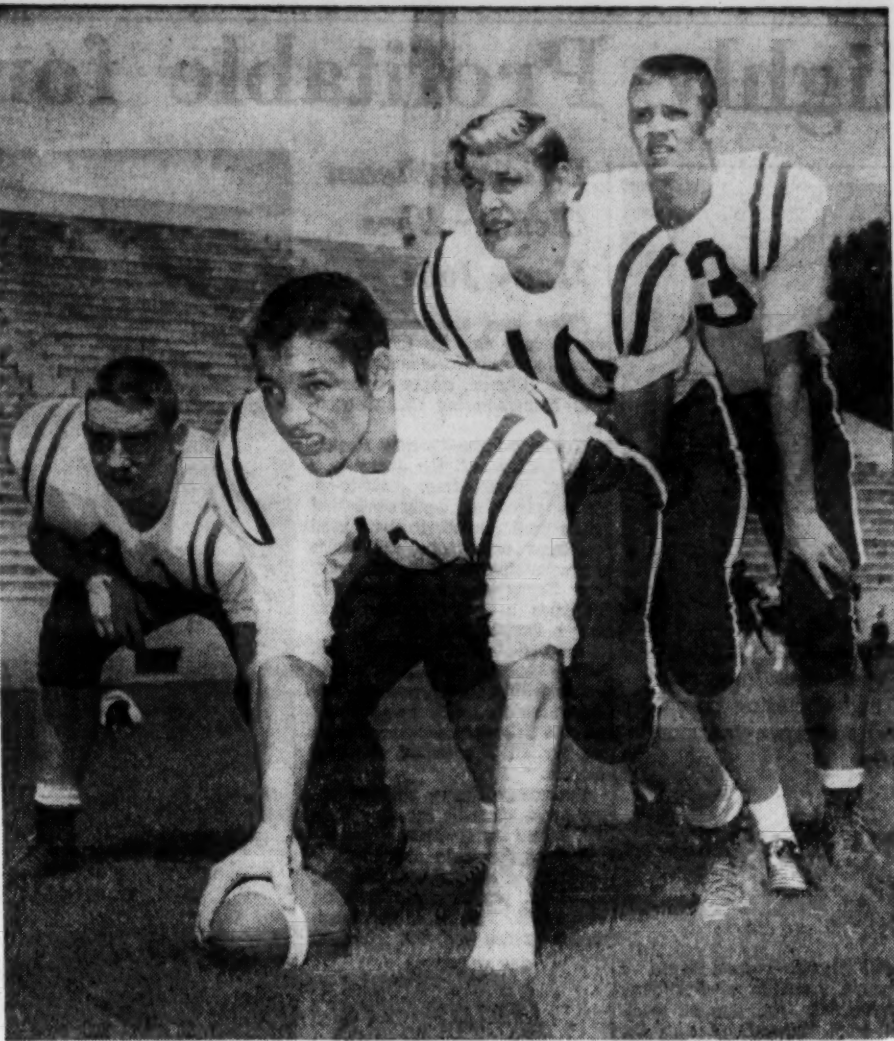

Wooddall rallied for three runs in the last two innings but it was too late.

DIAMOND DIARY FOES MAY OUTSCORE BIG RIP --BUT NEVER OUTLAST HIM

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala.—Ray Ruppelmeier never carried the mail in his life, but he can go the route as well as any postman in Uncle Sam's letter-carrying service.

Regarded by several Southern Assn. managers as the league's steadiest, headiest all-around pitcher, the husky Cracker right-hander is in a class by himself when it comes to negotiating the distance. He's finished what he started 18 of 22 times this season.

But Ruppelmeier, whose fine physical condition is the envy of his teammates, is no Ray-comelately to the "No Cry for Help" school. In three professional seasons and one winter league tour—passing over 1977 when he toiled at Wichita almost exclusively as a reliever—big "Rip" has pitched all the way on 52 occasions.

In his 1954 break-in year at Evansville (Three-I League) he hurled 16 complete games, posted a 16-5 record, and finished with 13 consecutive route jobs.

Ten of his 11 victories for Atlanta in 1958 and three of his four for Wichita were chalked up via full-game toil. Rip negotiated the route 16 of 16 times in compiling an 11-5 winter ball chart this year, and in every start for the Crackers in two years he has been the pitcher of decision.

The 6-3, 200-pound Valmeyer, Ill., work horse, who batted in or scored six of the 12 runs scored behind him in his 11 losses, has no doubt rolled up an all-the-way chart unparalleled in these days of emphasis on the rescue artists in the bullpen.

EX-CRACKERS ON PARADE—Jim Umbricht

hurled 6½ scoreless innings of relief in turning back Spokane twice, 10-8 and 8-6, and ran his Salt Lake City record to 9-7. . . . Don Kaiser (5-3) hurled two innings of runless relief and beat Charleston, 5-3, on Don Lasseiter's winning-run triple. But Louisville teammate Bob Hartman (6-2) was clobbered by Denver, 12-3, in the same series that a Kaiser bean ball almost instigated a gang fight. . . . Bill Gabler, hitting .126 for Minneapolis, was returned to Fort Worth and smashed five homers in six nights, raising his total to 18. In 15 games he rapped at a .314 clip.

Cal Ermer jerked Bob Thorpe off the bench, .252 batting average and a blistered hand notwithstanding, and the big outfielder batted in the winning runs in three straight games against Buffalo (3-1, 3-2, 6-5). Columbus won the first on his 400-foot, two-run homer. . . . Jim McDaniel, who set only strike-out records at Columbus, is pounding round-trippers at Denver (20 in 52 games) at a record postwar clip. He belted four in one twin-bill. . . . Earl Hersh's three-run homer provided a 3-2 victory over Indianapolis, making Georges Maranda Louisville's first 17-game winner since Jerry Casale in 1955. Maranda (17-6) was given two-out help by Ken MacKenzie.

EX-SOUTHERN LEAGUERS—Frank Leja, New Orleans grad, has silenced Richmond boohiers with his hitting. Twenty of his 22 homers were hit on the road as his home ("Parker") Field is 360 feet down the right foul line. Leja is regarded as the International's most improved player, and Buffalo manager Kerby Farrell predicts the $80,000 bonus first sacker will hit "a ton of homers" for the Yanks in 1960 or 1961. . . . Dick Stigman (8-13) fanned 10 in nipping Vancouver, 5-3, followed up with a 2-0, three-hit victory that broke Seattle's 11-game victory skein.

sacrifice fly, were as two drops of water in the ocean.

The defeat was the Crackers' 14th straight at the hands of Mel McGaha's people. And in 11 wrangles at Hartwell, punchless Atlanta tallied only 16 runs on 58 hits in the face of the Southern Assn's most talented hurling corps.

It's from the frying pan into the fire now as the Crackers move to Birmingham for four days. Claude Raymond (3-6) and Leo Cristante (3-8) will hurl Monday's double-bill for Atlanta.

Warriors Gambling Cook's a Gamble

Bass Converts Quarterback
To Guard-Tackle Spot

By PAUL ATKINSON

Will Ray Cook be another "Richard Gamble" for Bass High School? Warrior football coach Boyd Odom believes he may be.

To refresh your memory, Gamble was converted from his three-year post of quarterback and moved into a guard slot, from whence he became an all-star a few seasons back.

Cook was No. 1 B team quarterback last season, but was slipped into the guard breach during spring training this year.

"Actually, we're going to play Cook at both guard and tackle," first-year coach Odom said. "He gives us speed in the line and good weight at 180. Offensively, he's looked maybe better than anyone in the line."

"We'll need him, because we are painfully shallow. Whether Cook remains at guard depends on how our tackle situation turns out. He'll be in there somewhere."

A veteran backfield, which may or may not be without the services of fleet, hard-hitting halfback Alton Hallmark, is the big deal in Bass' bid for a respectable finish such as a duplication of last season's 4-5-1 chart (2-4 in 3-A-AAA East).

Quarterback Carl McMillan (170) is shooting for his fourth varsity letter; sophomore halfback Gary Clayton (165) goes for his second and fullback Benny Cox (185), the city's top line-buster, seeks his third.

Hallmark, too, would like a fourth letter. But he turned an ankle last Monday and has been ordered to use crutches. "We don't know how long Alton will be out," Odom continued.

1959 Bass Targets

Sept. 2—West Fulton (Grady, 6-0), 11—Sylvan (Grady, 6-7), 18—O'Keefe (Grady), 2—Northside (Grady), Oct. 3—Rensselaire (Cheney, 6-18), 14—Fulton (Cheney, 20-0), 23—Smith (Grady), 13-38, Nov. 3—Murphy (Grady, 6-27), 12—Grady, 7-13.

Figures in parenthesis indicate scores of last year's games—if any.

"If he's not ready for the Sept. 3 opener with West Fulton, then defensive specialist Jimmy Little (165) will move in at the other halfback."

"In the line, we'll go with Jerry Cook (165), Herbert Sckerl (165) and Joe Moss, another converted B team quarterback, at the ends; Rob White, a 190-pound senior letterman, and Carter Roper (205), from the B team, at tackles; Mike Retaun (165), Carl Woolf (165) and Pat Todd (145) at guards, and junior letterman Aubrey Mitchell (195), whom we moved from end."

"This Mitchell has all the potential of a fine player. He's having to get used to a strange spot—center—after working at end. But he'll come around. He'll play defensive tackle."

down swinging. A late entry in the tournament, Grant was unseeded.

Sack and Grant had eliminated first and second-seeded Bob Nichols and Lindsey Hopkins a day earlier.

Marilyn Vokes, the smooth-stroking distaff member of the Chattanooga University tennis team, overcame Atlanta Betty Jo Braselton, 6-4, 6-0, for the women's championship. After trailing 4-2 in the first set, Miss Vokes clicked off 10 straight games.

Georgia Tech's Harry Thompson and Georgia's Hopkins duplicated last week's Crackerland finish by outlasting Larry Shippey and Bob Nichols in men's doubles, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. Caryll and Dana Lenahan forced Louise Fowler and Mary Ann Comerat into overtime before missing the women's doubles crown, 1-6, 9-7, 6-1.

Hank Crawford, a precise shot-maker, bagged his doubles partner, Tom Bird, in senior singles, 6-3, 6-3.

Second-seeded Grant and Bobby Dodd dropped the first senior doubles set to Glenn Dudley-Vince Connerat, 3-6, took the second by the same count and were 3-0 when darkness forced postponement to 6 p.m. Monday. The third set will be started from scratch.

Daylight also ran out on mixed doubles after Braselton-Nichols won the first set, 6-3, and Sonny Mullis-Inez Long the second, 8-6.

After dropping the opening set, 4-2 points to 32, Grant outpointed Sack, 25-5, in the second. He sacked up 11 straight points and three love games in so doing. Sack posted a 38-32 point advantage in the third, and won, 89-83, over-all.

"I was lucky," the future Clarkdale, Miss., farmer said. "You have to try to return Bitsy's drop shots to realize how tough they are. That's the first time, though, I've ever double faulted at match point."

Sack seldom attempted to take the net, and the old fencing master, Bitsy, nearly cut his throat at the baseline.

HAGGE FILES ENTRY FOR LADIES TOURNNEY

Glamorous Marlene Bauer Hagge Sunday became the third proette to enter the first annual LPGA Open Invitational over the Continental Colony Club course Sept. 17-20.

Earlier entries included USGA open champion Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls, leading money winner for a single season. Consistency has been the trademark of Marlene, youngest of the two golfing sisters. She finished in the money in every tournament in which she competed in 1958 and was in the top 10 a total of 21 times. She has won two tournaments this year, the Mayfair Open and the Hoosier Pro-Am. Twice this season she was runner-up.

Twenty-five-year-old Marlene has been playing golf 22 years, having been started at the age of 3½ by her father, the late Dave Bauer, a golf pro.

Marlene hit the national limelight on her 15th birthday when she captured the Women's Invitational at Indo, Calif., with a 54-hole total of 210. Since then she has won over 30 tournaments and well over $61,000.

Amateurs with handicaps of 16 and under are invited to play in the LPGA Open.

Hill's 'Hypressure Jenny' Highly Profitable for Users

Efficient Steam Cleaner Does Many Jobs

"New uses are being discovered every day for the Hypressure Jenny steam cleaner," says Arthur Hillman, owner-partner of Hill Manufacturing Co., distributors.

Known as the "steam cleaner with 1,001 uses," the Jenny is a sturdy, trouble-free, easy-to-operate piece of equipment that gives profitable service with good customer acceptance. Hill sales representatives report that every new Jenny owner automatically becomes a Jenny booster after only a short time of use.

The Hill Manufacturing Co., widely known sanitation supply house with headquarters at 1500 Jonesboro Rd., SE, features prompt delivery and expert service for all Hypressure Jenny models.

Hypressure Jenny, the hot vapor spray cleaning machine (better known as a steam cleaner) combines the main elements essential to a 100 per cent cleaning job—heat, pressure and cleaning compounds. This combination removes grease and dirt from all efficiently operate the Hypressure Jenny. You simply flip the switch, and in less than 90 seconds from a cold start, Hypressure Jenny's blast of highly atomized steam hot water and cleaning and disinfecting compounds remove and flush away all dirt, grease and disease - harboring matter from even the tiniest cracks and crevices - 10 times faster and better than you can by hand.

NEW "TWELVE FIFTY" MODEL Hypressure Jenny Steam Cleaner

"JENOLIZING FOR SAVINGS AND PROFITS"—Hill Manufacturing Co., distributors for the Hypressure Jenny, calls attention to "Jenolizing" as the newest process for cleaning and appearance reconditioning automotive engines, machinery and equipment, as above photos show. It protects against flash rust; gives a lustrous, hard finish to all clean surfaces. For inquiries about the Hypressure Jenny steam cleaner, see your Hill representative, or call JA. 2-8364.

The "Jenny" is an ideal machine for garages, service stations, bus and fleet service shops, implement and tractor dealers, meat, fish and poultry processors, food product plants, bakeries, restaurant kitchens, poultry, dairy and stock farms, hatcheries, canneries and hospitals. Hypressure Jenny is manufactured in a size for every need. From an output of 75 gallons per hour up to 400 gallons per hour. Restaurant owners have found that cleaning with a Jenny Steam Cleaner bids fair to revolutionizing restaurant kitchen sanitation and cleaning methods.

Hill Manufacturing Co. also features their new and improved steam cleaning compounds, especially formulated for use with the Jenny. Their LC-65 Liquid is a composition of different ingredients with built-in water softener to give the best results possible when used in any steam cleaner. They also manufacture powder steam cleaning compounds SC-1, SC-2 and SC-3, varied in strength for cleaning to stripping paint.

To place your order for the Hypressure Jenny or compounds, see a Hill representative or order direct from Hill Manufacturing Co., 1500 Jonesboro Rd., SE, Atlanta. Demonstrations, prices and other information gladly given without obligation. Call JA. 2-8364.

MORE ROOM PLUS BEAUTY—This new room was skillfully added as if it were a part of the original construction by Wilson Contracting Company. Note the carport which was added to house a boat. This outstanding firm also specializes in creating beautiful dens and enclosing porches and patios. Read accompanying story for more details.

Thinking of Adding a New Room? Call Wilson Contracting Co.

Are you one of those whose house is comfortable — but also getting a bit crowded?

Best answer for this problem is to enclose your carport or add another room where possible. One of Atlanta's top specialists in this type of construction is Tom Wilson, head of Wilson Contracting Co., 371 North Ave., NE. During the past 10 years this firm has gained an enviable reputation in the Greater Atlanta area for skilled workmanship both interior and exterior of homes.

Wilson Contracting Co. makes a survey and views the possibilities. Each job is individual in that it is done to suit the particular requirements and needs of the family. "In addition," says Tom Wilson, "we enclose your carport so as to keep within the original construction of the house."

A glance at the accompanying photos will dramatically demonstrate the idea behind the Wilson Contracting Co.'s design concept. A new room has been literally transformed into a part of the main house so skillfully that it seems to be part of the original construction!

Incidentally, Mr. Wilson explained that the trend in today's brick home styling is to leave the original brick exposed in the new room area. This also results in a saving for the average job of this type for home owner.

This particular room was added in accordance with the home owner's individual desires. However, other stylings, such as exposed beams, several types of windows, beautiful tiled patterns for the floor, etc., are all available from Wilson Contracting Co. As one of the oldest home remodeling contractors in the Atlanta area, Wilson Contracting Co. is happy to assist home owners in planning their dens, choosing materials, etc. They also offer consultation and planning for any type of remodeling or modifications for homes. This includes room additions, balconies, attic rooms, basement rooms, baths, modern kitchens, roofing and siding.

Remember — "Wilson is the name to remember for home improvement." Liberal terms, take up to five years to pay. Free estimates cheerfully given without obligation. Wilson Contracting Co. is located at 371 North Ave., NE. Telephone TR. 5-6629.

The Wilson Contracting Co. is a member of the Home Improvement Contractors Assn. of Atlanta.

More Housewives Join In 'No Roach' Praise

"What can I do to control these terrible roaches from next door," asks the letter signed "Good Housekeeper." "I hate those sprays which need to be applied every day and contaminate the air!"

Well, "Good Housekeeper," scientists today are recommending No Roach. The new formula is:

(a) Effective against all crawling insects, including the new resistant roaches.

(b) Easy to use.

(c) Safe to use around children and pets.

(d) Stays effective for months with only one application.

It's called Johnston's No Roach. When you use No Roach there's no need to move dishes, or to breathe harmful sprays. Just brush this odorless, colorless liquid on cabinets, baseboards, windowsills, doorsteps, cracks, drainpipes—wherever roaches and ants may enter. It dries quickly to form an invisible death zone for all crawling insects. They walk across it... and die within minutes! Brush No Roach and forget it for months! It stays effective 24 hours a day.

No Roach works against

"NO-ROACH KILLS ON CONTACT"—Even resistant German roaches can't withstand No-Roach. Simply brush on cupboard walls, baseboards, cracks, roaches, ants, waterbugs, spiders, silverfish, all crawling insects. In the eight-ounce bottle only 89c. Pint, $1.69. Available at Rich's.

ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL PENNINGTON GREEN LAWN — Hormone-treated Pennington Green was responsible for this eye-filling lawn. Late August and early fall are excellent times for planting lawns, according to horticulture officials, so homeowners are invited to visit their dealers this week and pick up the yellow bag with the Pennington Green tag. See story.

Plant Pennington Green For Your Permanent Lawn

By planting hormone-treated Pennington Green grass seed in late August or early Fall, you can make your dream of a permanent lawn come true!

Developed after years of research and testing in Southern horticultural centers and already proven in the yards of thousands of satisfied homeowners in Georgia, Pennington Green is composed of four permanent grasses especially treated with Pennington's exclusive growth hormones. It contains no rye grass.

Today, Pennington Green has been made available to every homeowner, and is featured by many of Georgia's best nurseries.

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTES — Look for the familiar yellow bag with the Pennington Green tag. Available at hardware and seed stores, lawn and garden shops, and nurseries.

No Required Down Payment Necessary

More than 200 brand-new sparkling wide-track Pontiacs — in every color and model — are slated to go at historic savings between now and August 31, at Boomershine, Pontiac headquarters in Atlanta at 425 Spring St.

Aiming for their biggest month since the company was founded nearly 30 years ago, Boomershine has gathered its biggest crop of beautiful '59 Pontiacs and marked them down for immediate sale.

Emphasizing strongly the money-saving aspects of this almost unprecedented sale, Walter Boomershine Jr., general manager, said: "We are in an all-out drive to have our biggest August in history. If you have searched other places and still haven't found the model or color you desire—we have it."

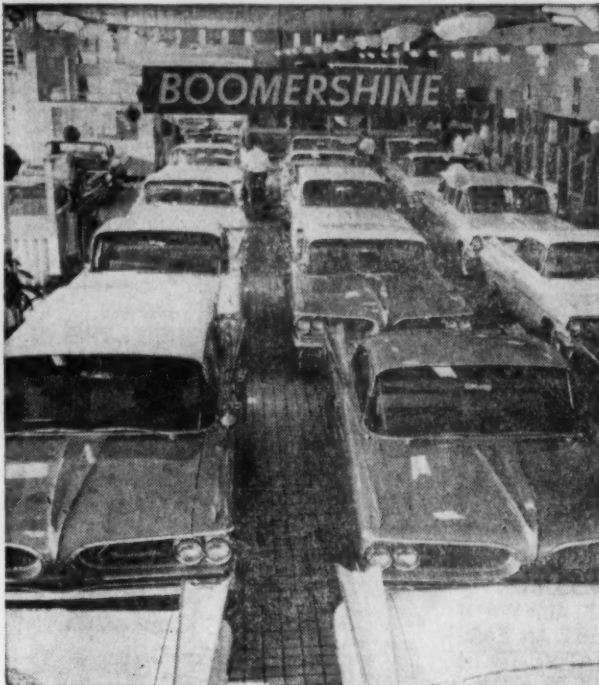

The "All Out" selling extravaganza begins this morning.

Motorists can choose from a glittering array of hardtops, convertibles, two- and four-door station wagons in handsome two-tone and solid colors; in fact, practically everything in the Pontiac '59 line is represented on the Boomershine showroom floor.

Mr. Boomershine announced that if desired: "There is no required down payment from buyers — and the first monthly payment is not due 'til November!"

Every 1959 Pontiac will be fully equipped with Hydra-Matic, radio, heater, directional signals, white-sidewall tires, air foam cushions and more.

Part of the secret of the Boomershine success, according to Walter Boomershine Jr., general

"YOUR CHOICE IS HERE"—In their all-out attempt to smash all past marks and attain a new high record for August, Boomershine-Pontiac, 425 Spring St., NW, invites prospective car buyers to take advantage of remarkable savings and liberal terms on new 1959 wide-track Pontiacs, now available in a wide selection of colors and styles. Headline story gives details.

manager, lies in the fact that for the past 29 years Boomershine has had the most up-to-date service department in the South. It contains the most complete stock of Pontiac parts, the finest testing equipment and the largest staff of factory-trained Pontiac mechanics.

Boomershine's Service Department was founded over 29 years ago on this pledge: "To see that your Pontiac gives you such good transportation you will want to drive a Pontiac the rest of your life!"

If you've waited and waited—NOW'S the time to cash in Boomershine's desire to achieve a new August high. Prices are lower... trades bigger than ever before. No required down payment with no monthly payment due until November!

Boomershine salesmen are on the premises every evening until 9 o'clock, so that families may come down and select their '59 Pontiac together. Drive to Boomershine, Pontiac headquarters in Atlanta—425 Spring St. and trade your way now!

R. J. Tallman Takes Post With Homelite-Atlanta

The Atlanta district office of Homelite Division of Textron, Inc., announces that Rolie J. Tallman has been engaged as credit manager.

Mr. Tallman is a life-long resident of Hapeville and resides at 3646 Georgia Ave. with his wife, Betty Anne (formerly Thrallkill), daughter, Debra, 3, and son, Kenneth, 2. A Navy veteran and now in process of completing his business administration course at Georgia State College, he was formerly credit manager at John Lucas & Co. of Northside drive.

In announcing Mr. Tallman's appointment to his new position, Gene McClellan, district manager at Homelite-Atlanta, stated that the appointment of new dealers for Homelite Chain Saws and the Homelite Mower-car (riding lawnmower) has overloaded the present organization, so that the new position had to be created.

The Homelite-Atlanta district is comprised of North and Middle Georgia and virtually all of Alabama. Homelite division manufacturing plants are at Gastonia, N.C., and Greer, S.C.

Guard Against Heart Disease

Until the present advances in thinking and research on heart disease have brought in the expected results, we must be content with guarding against all the possible causative or contributory factors. They have often been enumerated. First of all, statistical studies show that men are affected more than women. Whether this is due to a sex hormonal factor or to some other circumstantial phase of men's lives is still unknown.

In my experience with both men and women patients it seems to me the average man bears definitely greater responsibilities than the average woman, though there are certainly exceptional cases where the opposite is true.

Carrying responsibilities is done in several ways, dependent upon individual personality. If serenity and equanimity can be bred in a person or acquired by him, even the heaviest burden of responsibilities can be borne with a faith that "what can't be helped must be endured." But this slogan is used by this group of responsible people only after the utmost effort to lessen a stressful situation. The effort strengthens the philosophy.

Diet will undoubtedly be conclusively shown to have its good or bad effect on the arteries. Up to now, three methods of using this factor to help the cause of long arterial life are under intensive study. Of the greatest importance is the knowledge gained from statistics that the overweight have a greater tendency to arterial troubles than the lean.

Then comes the not yet entirely clarified problem of animal fats and arterial degeneration. It is, however, the impression of those expert in this field that meat fats, cream and butter should be used with moderation and vegetable fats substituted. The intake of salt should be restricted by those who habitually shake it on routinely, even before they have tasted their food. This is especially to be recommended as we are growing older.

Being lethargic physically is no help and may even be a great hindrance to arterial health. We were designed by nature to have blood circulate actively through our entire arterial tree. Sitting in an automobile when one could be walking, and not using an opportunity to play a lively game in the open are both failures to use such occasions to help keep our arteries young.

Even high blood pressure, which was once considered an irreversible ailment, can now be helped by new drugs. This is another contributory factor in the problem of keeping arteries from causing fatalities.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A94 ♥A108 ♦95 ♣K8762

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass Pass Pass 1♥

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. If you had not passed, a temporary bid of two clubs would be in order with the intention of raising hearts subsequently. But a call of two clubs at this juncture would not be forcing and partner might pass with a minimum hand or could produce a good play for game in hearts.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A9 ♥10965 ♦Q1042 ♣92

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass

1♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Although your values are at best of moderate quality and partner has shown no great enthusiasm on his bid, some further effort is called for if only to improve the contract. Your hand is not too unbalanced and partner has bid both of your short suits so one no trump appears to be a slightly better choice than two diamonds.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠J1087 ♥KQ7 ♦K1093 ♣KQ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass

1♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump, because this is a very minimum opening. The encouragement of a single raise in partner's suit should not be extended to him. If he cannot proceed on his momentum, no game will have been missed.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠KJ9842 ♥Q3 ♦8 ♣K1076

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 1♣ Double ?

What do you bid?

A.—Redouble. Although this hand is a little shy of the requirements in terms of high card values, the distribution is very favorable. If partner has any sort of fit for spades, he should be a laydown. If not, you fit his clubs well enough to justify strenuous competition for the hand.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠AJ6 ♥K2 ♦AJ1042 ♣K10

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass

2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. A rebid of just two no trump would not be enough, the limit is 38 points, and your hand exceeds that mark by two tens plus a good five-card suit. The fit with partner makes slam prospects bright and strong encouragement should be offered him. The jump in no trump is best calculated to describe the type of hand you hold.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠♥KQ97 ♦KJ10862 ♣1052

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass 1♣ 1♦ 1♠

Pass 2NT Pass 3NT

Pass Pass Pass

What is your opening lead?

A.—King of hearts. East has strongly indicated possession of the missing diamond honors by his rebid, so your only constructive hope on this hand is to find partner with some sort of heart holding. This is not at all unlikely from the bidding. The king is selected in preference to the seven because you are close to having a sequence and dummy may come down with the jack and one heart.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠AQ1032 ♥A962 ♦K9 ♣J3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 2♦ 2♣ Double

Pass 2♥ 3♦ 3♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. It is true you might miss a game, for nine tricks may be available, but the penalty double quite appealing. Repeated forcing on declarer will probably have a crippling effect.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠K74 ♥9 ♦KJ9753 ♠AQ7

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ Pass 1♦ Pass

1♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A jump of some kind is indicated, but there is no completely satisfactory call available. A jump to two no trump might turn out well but we try to avoid the bid on unbalanced hands. Perhaps the lesser of evils is a jump to three clubs, a bid which we usually avoid with only three trumps. We find this slightly preferable to a three-diamond bid which somehow seems more confining.

Daily Guide—A good practical day to work smoothly. It would be an excellent time to confer with those in authority on cooperative plans of a permanent nature. Work with older people along well established lines. Virgoans, Capricornians and Taurus born in the early part of the signs are especially favored. Around the noon hour very social and pleasant. The evening hours less smooth but still with the overtones of substantial support from the right people.

Tomorrow a little lighter, in atmosphere, with more moving around, talk and restlessness. The moon will be in Gemini late, indicating two days of activity for shopping, neighborhood errands or little trips. The conservative trends of the last two days shift to more surface consideration.

Happy birthday, Virgo! The cycle of long duration which can bring deep psychological changes or bring you out into the light of wide publicity continues; it is especially accented at present. This is the month in which you could take the initiative, make decisions and act aggressively. At present you may be having many original ideas which you can't express as yet, and shouldn't until after next week. You can

They've Got To Find The Hightower Trail

An Indian with a pack on his back knew the way. But for several years now, educated white men have been lost way out in the bushes in trying to determine the exact location of the Hightower trail.

The reason they have to know is because the trail is the official boundary between Gwinnett and DeKalb counties. Just last week Gov. Vandiver appointed H. L. Donehoo of Winder as surveyor to determine exactly where the line runs. It seems there are some taxpayers who don't know where to pay their taxes.

The division of opinion about where the line runs even involves one church—County Line Baptist Church, which is located off Bermuda road east of Stone Mountain. One county map shows the church in Gwinnett, another shows it in DeKalb. Members say it is merely on the side of the Lord.

Mr. Donehoo will find some notes left by a J. T. Cunningham to be of great value. Cunningham surveyed the trail back in 1819. His survey was made to determine the boundary between Creek Indian lands and State of Georgia lands. The notes were dug up by the State Department of Archives.

Dr. John H. Goff, Emory professor whose hobby is Indian trails and is considered an expert on the subject, said he thought the surveyors should have no trouble following the Cunningham notes.

Dr. Goff paid tribute to the Indian as a surveyor. "He had no instruments, but he must have had an uncanny sense of direction," Dr. Goff said. "In nearly every instance you'll find that Indian trails take the shortest practical distance between the two points he wanted to visit."

Dr. Goff said the Hightower trail crossed the Chattahoochee at the Shallowford of the Chattahoochee, mentioned in many history books. "The shallow ford is still right in the same place, which should give a good starting point," Dr. Goff said.

The Hightower trail was part of an Indian network of trading trails reaching from their villages on the Etowah and Chattahoochee rivers across the state to the white man's settlements along the more eastern rivers. Hightower as a name is a corruption of the word Etowah, Dr. Goff believes.

Any Indians in your survey party, Mr. Donehoo? You may get lost!

Polio Scare Due to Nothing but Apathy

Many stories have been written about why we have another polio scare with us, notwithstanding the development of the Salk vaccine. The scare and the disease is with us due to just one thing—public apathy.

The drug houses have been condemned because they do not now have an ample supply to vaccinate everybody. Well, they DID have an ample supply at one time, and old man public let it sit there on the druggist and warehouse shelves until it was too old to use.

The manufacturers of the vaccine had to call in all this outdated stuff and destroy it. Of course, they based their future manufacturing plans on what seemed to be the public demand.

And apathy cut the demand down until now there is not enough for those who want and need and must have the vaccine. The drug houses have had to resort to rationing—allocating the available supplies to the regions where there is possibility of epidemic.

Some blame has been attached to the medical profession. But this blame won't fit here, where the Fulton County Medical Society ran dollar day specials and did everything it could think of to get everyone vaccinated.

Let's get together and really lick this thing. Have you seen anyone with smallpox lately? Well, polio can go to limbo the same way.

"Children are born with varying dispositions but these can be changed and molded with proper sympathy and efforts."
—Child article quote.

Some people are born with such good dispositions . . . They're happy regardless of all the conditions . . . While others are born with a "chip on the shoulder" . . . And seem to get worse as they grow and get older.

They both should get married, but not to each other . . . The unhappy one should remain with her mother . . . Someone who would pamper and love her and pet her . . . And if she were mine I would certainly let her.

And if it's the man who is always unhappy . . . He ought to stay single and live with his pappy . . . For his chronic complaints and his loud lamentations . . . Will certainly ruin conjugal relations.

The former should marry but, as for the latter . . . They'll never be happy, so what does it matter . . . If they remain single, or pretty darn near it! . . . So they won't leave a grouch for the kids to inherit.

Pick Favorite in 'Peanuts,' Win Dolls and a Drawing

Are you a Lucy lover? Or are you a fan of Charlie Brown's? The Constitution wants to know which of the Peanuts characters you like best, so we are starting a popularity contest.

To cast your vote for your favorite Peanuts character, write us a letter of 25 words or less telling us the reason for your choice. Each week for six weeks the writer of the best letter will receive a set of nine-inch plastic dolls of Linus, Lucy, Charlie Brown and Snoopy.

However, you can write a letter about any of the characters: Pig Pen, Schroeder, Patty, Violet, and Sherry, too. At the end of the six weeks the winning character and the grand prize letter will be announced and the winner will receive an autographed original Charles Schulz drawing.

The winner will also be given the opportunity of sending a dozen each of the dolls to any children's home of his choice.

Rep. Kidd Invites Public To Mental Health Hearing

Rep. Culver Kidd, chairman of the joint Senate-House Mental Health Study Committee, has urged that anyone interested in mental health legislation appear before the committee during a public hearing Wednesday.

The hearing will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the House chambers at the State Capitol.

Kidd said the committee will hold a regular business session Wednesday morning.

"We hope that anyone with proposals for aiding the state's mental health program will meet with the committee during the afternoon session," Kidd said. "The 1960 legislative session may be the most important ever held so far as mental health legislation is concerned."

3,000 Pen Opinions to Landrum

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Rep. Phil Landrum has received so many letters and telegrams about his labor reform bill that he has had to borrow an electric letter-opener.

When the Georgia congressman left his office for the weekend, there were about 3,000 letters and telegrams stacked on the desks.

The vast majority of the messages, Landrum said, have been to congratulate him on House passage of his labor bill or to urge him to fight for its complete adoption in Senate-House conference.

NATIONWIDE

Businessmen and rank-and-file union members have wired or written to him not only from Georgia but from all across the nation. Only a very few, he said, have voiced opposition to his bill.

One group of union members, approving his bill, told Landrum in a telegram that "we'd go through hell for a man like you."

On the other side, one union member told Landrum he ought to resign from Congress.

The Georgian said that he has no intention of yielding to Senate conferees on the basic provisions against secondary boycotts, black-mail picketing and hot cargo contracts in the bill he and Rep. Griffin (R-Mich.) authored.

MOST COLLEAGUES STAY

A majority of Landrum's House colleagues in the Senate-House conference are solidly with him against weakening the Landrum-Griffin bill. They won concessions from the Senate conferees on less controversial provisions last week just before taking up the boycott and picketing sections.

Apparently there is an excellent chance of the stronger bill being adopted instead of the weaker Senate version.

If the conference committee cannot agree, a move may be made in the Senate to discharge its conferees and agree to the House bill.

Both Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson want a labor reform bill of some kind passed.

Deaf Mute's Car Companion Jailed on Her Attack Charge

A 39-year-old deaf mute was beaten and raped in northwest Atlanta early Sunday by a man who had offered her a ride home, police were told.

James Carlton Tedder, 30, of 1277 E. Mercer St., East Point, was arrested several hours later in a downtown Atlanta hotel and held for suspicion of rape.

The woman informed police that Tedder offered to take her home from a Hunter Street grill shortly past midnight and then attacked her.

She suffered a fractured jaw, an eye laceration and cuts and bruises on the neck.

REPORTERS OFF BASE?

Johnson's Failure On Rights Surprise

By ALBERT RILEY

Constitution Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The apparent collapse of Lyndon Johnson's strategy to get a moderate civil rights bill through both houses of Congress this session has come as somewhat of a surprise to many Washington observers.

They long have been accustomed to seeing the skillful Senate majority leader accomplish legislative miracles of compromise.

This faith in Johnson's ability to do the impossible caused most reporters to hesitate to make any flat prediction that no civil rights bill would be enacted this year, although the warning signals have been showing increasingly of late. They have been up ever since the announcement that Soviet Premier Khrushchev would visit Washington on Sept. 15, thereby assuring an earlier adjournment.

This reporter did write on Aug. 6 that "Southerners in Congress may have an unexpected ally in Nikita S. Khrushchev in their fight to keep civil rights legislation down to a bare bones minimum this year."

BELIEF PERSISTED

That news dispatch went on to say "it seems that a civil rights bill will not get to the floor of either the House or the Senate for debate until very late in the session, if at all."

Again on Aug. 17 this correspondent reported that enactment of even a mild civil rights bill this session was no longer a sure thing, and that the odds had dwindled to no better than 50-50.

The stubborn belief persisted, however, that Johnson somehow would get his way in the end, maneuvering a mild bill through both houses. Until a source close to Speaker Rayburn revealed a few days ago that this strategy had been abandoned. The script now calls for passage of moderate bill in the Senate to await House action next year, and adoption of a joint resolution merely extending the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

What has happened, aside from adjournment fever, to stall Johnson's plans?

NO REAL PRESSURE

For one thing, there has been no real pressure for a civil rights bill this year except from Johnson, who would like to dispose of the issue before 1960, and from a vocal minority of northerners.

The Eisenhower administration has given lip service to the cause, but has exerted no real pressure. Neither Vice President Nixon nor GOP leaders Dirksen in the Senate and Halleck in the House have had much to say on the issue.

On the Democratic side, House Speaker Rayburn and majority leader John McCormack have remained aloof from the controversy, indicating no real desire of the House leadership for a bill.

There also is the suspicion that House Republicans agreed to go along with Southern Democrats in their stalling tactics this year, in return for Dixie support for the Landrum-Griffin labor bill.

POLITICAL PLAY?

Furthermore, the Republicans probably would just as soon let the Northern and Southern wings of the Democratic Party tear themselves apart on the issue in the 1960 election year.

The South-baiting Northern radicals of both parties probably would just as soon have the issue

5 of Family Die in Fire At Apartment

PAMPA, Tex. (UPI) — Fire roared through a three-story brick apartment house here Sunday, killing a married couple and three of their children. Three other children escaped by leaping from a window.

Police said the fire broke out in the basement of the building, where more than 20 persons lived. Two patrolmen spotted the fire while driving past the building.

The victims were Louis Stone, his wife, Christine, and three children: Betty, 20, Gary, 15, and Kenneth, 8.

Atlanta Area Navy Reserve Fliers Return From Training Cruise

The 100 officers and enlisted men of Attack Squadron 672, Naval Reserve unit based at Dobbins, returned Sunday from a two-week training cruise to New Orleans.

While at New Orleans the pilots averaged about 40 hours flying time each in their ADs, attack fighter-bombers.

The squadron is composed of reservists from the Atlanta metropolitan area. Commanding officer is John E. Anderson Jr. of DeKalb County.

has backed away from the subject ever since it became apparent that antibombing provisions would be extended to include labor bombings as well as the bombings of schools and churches.

And, finally, three other factors outside the realm of politics, appear to have taken a lot of heat out of the civil rights issue.

One is that the local police at Little Rock proved that a Southern community can put down mob violence in integration disputes without the need of federal intervention.

Another is that token integration is quietly proceeding in more schools of the South, particularly in Virginia since the collapse of "massive resistance."

And finally a spate of racial violence and unrest in several northern cities apparently is creating a growing awareness across the nation that the race problem is not the South's alone and that it can best be handled at the local level.

Do a Mother's Emotional Problems Affect Unborn Baby? Doctors Disagree

By JOYCE GEMMILL

Do emotional upsets and shock during pregnancy affect your unborn child?

There are two different schools of thought on this question by the medical profession. Many doctors agree, however, that the mother-to-be who keeps herself physically fit and free from long periods of emotional stress has a better chance to produce a normal, healthy baby than one who does not.

One obstetrician in Atlanta says unborn babies have safely survived innumerable major catastrophes ranging from airplane and automobile crashes to floods, earthquakes and bombings.

"I am personally of the opinion that emotional stress caused by marital difficulties or a general feeling of despondency does not have any effect whatsoever on the unborn child," says another Atlanta doctor. "The fetus is so well protected by nature in a shock-resistant enclosure it is doubtful to me if anything but a starvation-diet would affect it."

SEPARATE AND DISTINCT

He continues: "Since the fetus is a separate and distinct being connected only to the mother through a feed-line, I see no reason to endorse the theory that the fetus would be affected by emotional disturbances of the mother."

The old wives' theory that "thoughts will mark your child" has been scoffed at by the medical profession for years. Recently, however, there has developed a faction in the medical profession who believed that long periods of mental or emotional stress during pregnancy might possibly affect the child in later years.

Here is the statement by one Atlanta obstetrician who concurs with this theory: "It has been proven that when an individual is emotionally upset, there is a secretion of certain glands such as the adrenal. A superfluous amount of these secretions that pour into the blood stream is thought to have some effect on cardiac and other conditions.

"It is logical to assume that when a woman is emotionally distressed for any great length of time it might possibly affect her unborn child."

EMOTIONAL STABILITY

The head obstetrician of a hospital offers this formula for emotional stability for the mother-to-be:

"Maintain strict vigilance over health and diet habits. Don't allow yourself to get 'down in the dumps' simply because your figure is going through a normal change process. It'll bounce back and be better than ever after the baby is born."

"Don't stop enjoying a normal social life with your husband and friends, unless your physician so advises, just because you're going to have a baby. Don't let petty things upset you. Don't be a chronic complainer and expect your husband to wait on you hand and foot.

"You should feel better during your pregnancy than at any other time during your life. Keep active, get lots of rest, follow a sensible diet as suggested by your doctor and stop feeling sorry for yourself. The greatest adventure in life awaits you."

TOBE SAYS

Perky Little Peaked Cap

Youngest and perkier of the new fall fashions is the little peaked cap. These sit on the back of the head, rising to a back slanted peak, sometimes really high, other times to only a slight, shallow point.

I like the peaked caps particularly in soft skirting felt, in velvet or velveteen, and in feathers put on in unusual designs. And like all other hat fashions this fall, I find them in furs as well.

Montego Dresses Designed For the Sophisticated Petite

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER

Constitution Fashion Editor

Designed for the petite with young sophistication is the Montego collection to be shown to Atlanta Tuesday and Wednesday in two days of informal modeling.

This special handling of fashion comes from the drawing board of youthful Morton Myles who, at the age of 30, shows a remarkable maturity in his clean, uncluttered creations.

A graduate of the Fashion Institute of America, Mr. Myles has studied in Paris at the Ecole Guere-Lavigne and served in the Parisian house of Jacques Fath as sketcher and designer. From this background, he has acquired a special appreciation for elegant fabrics and handles them with the deftness of his own native talent.

This fall he has taken inspiration from woollens as soft and light as silk, from crepes that oftentimes are more supple than the woollens, from the mellowness of velvets, and from brocades that appear to be woven with jewels.

SLIM COLLECTION

Bringing the collection to Atlanta is Mr. Burnie Berglass, fashion manager of Montego, who will explain Mr. Myles' feeling for fall '59. From a capsule preview, this feeling appears to be slim to very slim in silhouette with a noticeable trend away from full skirts.

Dark Cottons Sail Into Fall

By DOROTHY ROE

AP Newsfeatures Writer

There's nothing like a pretty dark printed cotton dress to perk up a tired summer wardrobe and take you gaily into fall. Dark enough to look right for the season but cool enough for a hot autumn day, it can be a wardrobe standby from August through October.

If a dress such as this is on your end-of-summer sewing schedule, here are some tips from local sewing center experts. Fabric and pattern must be perfectly coordinated, with just enough cover-up so that the dress may go shopping as well as to parties. Select a pattern with short sleeves and an open, cool neckline. A pleated skirt provides graceful movement and ease.

Fur is made much of, frequently it is dyed to blend with the costume in such a manner that the fur origin is difficult to nail down.

Ranging in price from $35 to $69.95, the collection includes fashion for early day to late after-five. Stone green stands out as the favored color for day wear with sapphire blue coloring around the clock styles. Gray, in its many shadings, can be found in profusion.

Typical of beautiful fabric and the handling of fur is the town suit of stone green with a raccoon collar. This once-considered-lowly fur is stampeding back to the fore in fashion this season and a touch of it here or there labels the garment as originating in the very present present. The suit jacket is hip level, notched on either side, in the easy defining without confining line. The skirt is slender.

SOPHISTICATED APPEAL

The tunic has a sophisticated appeal handled by designer Myles in champagne silk faille. The underskirt is very slim while the overskirt gives the feeling of fullness with inverted pleats without bulkiness. A tiny waist is achieved with a cinching crushed midriff.

Fur again in a dress strikingly smart because of its utter simplicity appears at the cuffs of a charcoal gray wool jersey dress. The fur is clipped squirrel.

For shopping information, call JA. 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to the Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

Miss Baxter Is Bride of Mr. Daniel

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baxter were hosts at a reception at their Club drive home following the marriage on Sunday afternoon of their daughter, Janet Frances Baxter, to Ray Allen Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Daniel of Atlanta.

The nuptial service took place at the Northside Methodist Church, with the Rev. Robert V. Oment officiating, at 4 o'clock.

Alice Faye Vaughn of Montgomery was the bride's maid of honor, and her bridesmaids were Martha King of Atmore, Ala., and Lynne Gordon of Miami. Mr. Baxter gave his daughter in marriage.

Fashioned of Italian silk, the bride's gown was trimmed in Alencon lace with the pattern traced in seed pearls, and featured a chapel-length train. Her veil of illusion cascaded from a Juliet cap of Belgian lace embroidered in seed pearls.

The bridegroom's father served as his best man, and ushering were his brother, Mike Daniel, Shelton Granade of Greenville, Ala.; Wesley Grant of Montgomery, and John Vookles of Memphis.

Mrs. Mac Ray Whitaker of Franklin, N.C.; Nancy Robison of Troy, Ala.; Peggy Rodgers, Frances Thompson and Rachel Bush assisted in entertaining at the reception.

After their wedding trip to North Carolina, the couple will reside in Fredericksburg, Va.

Sterilization Isn't Answer

It's not my nature to moan that nobody understands me. Frequently I have the uneasy feeling that I'm understood only too well for my aching ego's sake. But occasionally, I vow, I think people go to all manner of trouble to misconstrue your motives.

A couple of weeks ago I railed out—maybe a tad shrewishly—at the notion of passing a state law to sterilize all women who have two illegitimate children. Such a law, I contended, was impractical and would not accomplish what its sponsors fondly hoped for—the saving of tax money now spent in Aid to Dependent Children grants. I may have added the whole idea was stinking, too, or some other delicate little thing like that but I think mostly I concerned myself with the premise that sterilization of women wasn't the answer. (I did suggest that sterilizing men would be easier, cheaper and more sensible but I didn't advocate that either.)

Well, a lot of people called and wrote in and mostly I was warmed and cheered by their comments. But a couple of people called up to chew me out for having coming out for adultery. To hear one man talk I had put myself on record as being the world's No. 1 advocate of illicit love and illegitimacy. "Read your Bible," he directed me sonorously. A lady wept over my obtuseness about money but ended up blistering me for my lack of piety.

"Put the Lord Jesus in the picture," she cried, "And you'll find you have a different view of this sinful carrying on!"

Well, I'm not the most pious person I ever saw but I'm not presumptuous enough to think I can "put" the Lord Jesus anywhere. According to my country Presbyterian raising, He's omnipresent. And I have a notion He's especially present where babies are born, legitimately or otherwise. Besides, I have a squeamish reluctance to trot out the Lord to support my side in any difference of opinion because I think most well-intentioned people, whatever their persuasion, earnestly seek to see things in light of their religious convictions. Just because we disagree doesn't mean one of us is wicked and godless.

So, smarting a little from these telephonic raw-hidings, I was delighted and relieved the other day to see the whole problem of tax money for illegitimate babies wrenched back to a discussion of what's sensible and practical. Fulton County's announcement of an effort to get at the basic mental and emotional trouble of women who have several illegitimate babies was good to hear. And behind that was a substantial body of information and statistics collected on the whole problem.

Only 10.8 per cent of the children receiving ADC grants in Fulton County are illegitimate and these are but 3.1 per cent of the total number of illegitimate children in the county. So if having fatherless children is the fat, high-paying enterprise that some people contend, there are a lot of women in Fulton County who are failing to collect.

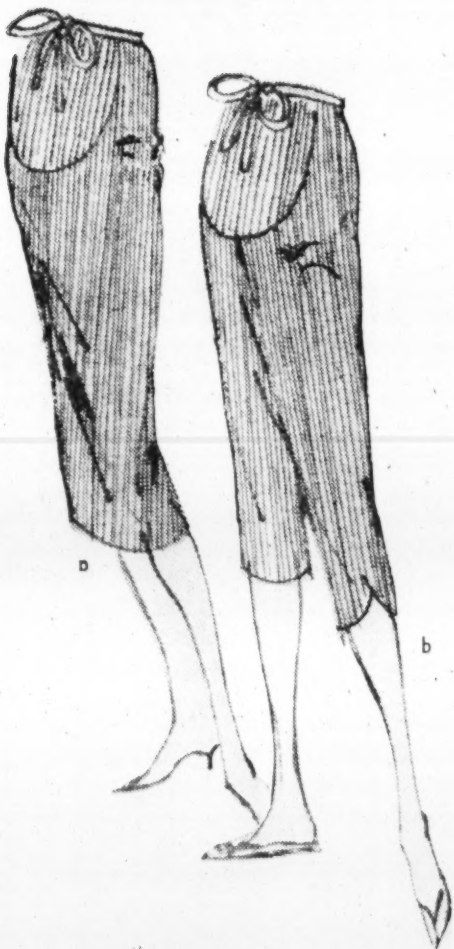

Raleigh C. Hobson, director of the Richmond, Va., department of public welfare and member of a Governor's commission to study problems relating to children born out of wedlock, had this to say:

"The general impression that most of the illegitimate are cared for by public relief agencies is far from true. . . . Over 90 per cent of the illegitimate children are cared for by relatives and friends without any expense to the taxpayer. . . . Another important fact that is not generally realized is that this is chiefly a problem of young girls. The largest five year grouping of mothers of illegitimate children, both white and Negro, falls in the 15 to 19 year old group."

The problem Mr. Hobson says is complex, rooted in "the mores, customs and cultural patterns of our society" and although he says no single measure can possibly supply the answer, he has made some specific recommendations which I would like to take up with you tomorrow.

His study suggests a humane recognition of a serious problem that's refreshing in the face of our heedless pass-a-law palliatives.

AN ENTICING REFRIGERATOR DESSERT SERVED FOR SUMMER
Summer Fruit Cake Combines Grapes, Pineapple, Cherries and Nuts

Summer Fruit Cake Is Tasty Dessert To Serve in August

By VIRGINIA DYSARD KEZIAH
Constitution Food Editor

Fruit cake in the midst of the hot weather season! Sure, but it's not the Christmas kind even though they both contain pineapple, cherries, grapes and nuts.

This interesting cool-looking dessert is called summer fruit cake. It's a creamy gelatin mixture, molded with Tokay grapes and other fresh fruits, surrounded by lady fingers and handsomely garnished with colorful Tokay grapes.

Into a mold place lady fingers against the sides and spoon the fruit and whipped cream in around the lady fingers gently. Guests will ask how it was done so perfectly and will surely want the recipe.

Freshly harvested grapes are coming into the markets now in good supply. Most of us enjoy the tart or sweet grapes just as they come from the vine, but you'll find they give added goodness to summertime salads and desserts. The grapes make a handsome garnish when served with hot or cold meat entrees, or as a fall centerpiece.

SUMMER FRUIT CAKE

- 1 env. plain gelatin
- 1/2 cup Tokay wine, or other sweet, strong wine
- 1 (9-oz.) can crushed pineapple
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/8 tsp. salt
- 6 lady fingers
- 3/4 cup maraschino cherries (half red and half green)
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 cup halved seeded Tokay grapes
- 1/2 cup finely diced orange
- 2 tbsps. chopped or ready diced almonds

Soften gelatin in wine and dissolve over hot water. Combine with undrained pineapple, sugar and salt. Cool until slightly thickened. Meanwhile line 2-quart mold with split lady fingers. Cut cherries into quarters. Whip cream until stiff, and fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in cherries, grapes, orange and almonds; carefully spoon mixture into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold to serve. Makes about 8 servings.

If desired, arrange orange slices, halved Tokays and whole maraschino cherries in bottom of mold, and carefully spoon a little of gelatin mixture over them. Chill until set, then line sides of mold with lady fingers and proceed as above.

Gangster's Death Bars Jury Probe

Old Capone Crony Slain in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The slaying of an old Al Capone gang associate thwarted plans by a special federal grand jury investigating organized crime to question him, it was disclosed Sunday.

Frederick Evans, 60, a laundry executive, once termed the financial genius of the Capone mob, was cut down by two gunmen in broad daylight Saturday in a West Side parking lot.

SHOT 4 TIMES

The gunmen pumped four bullets into Evans' head and neck, snatched an envelope from his pocket, then fled in an auto.

Richard B. Ogilvie, special U.S. assistant attorney general, said Evans was to have been called before the jury because of his past association with the Capone mob.

Ogilvie said, however, he doubted Evans was slain because he was a prospective witness. He noted that Evans had been uncooperative when appearing in previous investigations.

The slaying motive was a mystery.

INDICTED IN 1940

Evans was charged in a 1940 indictment with conspiracy to take over a bartenders union. Acquitted with him were such syndicate codefendants as Paul (The Walter) Ricca, Louis (Little New York) Campagna, Frank (The Enforcer) Nitti, and Murray (The Cangel) Humphries.

In 1955 Evans was questioned by a counsel of the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee. It was reported at that time he denied any association with the syndicate.

In 1955 Evans, then head of the Chicago cab drivers' union, Joey Glimco and Eugene Luffman were called before a special Cook County grand jury investigating a wave of robberies. No charges were brought against him.

Tibet Trade Lost, Bhutan Turns South

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Little Bhutan, high in the Himalayas between India and Tibet, has been forced by trouble with Red China to abandon its historic isolation, its prime minister said Sunday.

Prime Minister Jigme Dorji said the Chinese Communists have blocked Bhutan's normal trade with neighboring Tibet. So Bhutan will turn south toward India and the outside world.

Bhutan is concerned about its border with Tibet, where Red China has been in control since 1951.

Bhutan, 190 miles long and 90 miles wide, has a population of only 700,000. Its army numbers only a few thousand.

2,000 Norse Bid Farewell To Rockefellers at Airport

SOGNE, Norway (AP)—Steven Rockefeller and his storybook Norwegian bride left by plane for New York Sunday. It was three years ago to the day that Steven's wife, Anne Marie, left Norway to be a maid in the home of the wealthy Rockefellers.

Aboard the plane were Steven's parents, Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and other members of the Rockefeller family who came here for Saturday's wedding.

Steven and Anne Marie said farewell to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kristian Rasmussen, at the airport.

Anne Marie and Steven spent most of the day with her parents. The airport was crowded. Several hundred automobiles jammed its limited parking facilities, and 1,500 to 2,000 persons who stood by to watch the departure set some kind of a record for this usually quiet part of the world.

Steven and his bride went to the airport early to avoid most of the crowd. The Rasmussens came later and then the Rockefellers. In the group taking off were a total of seven, including the governor's wife, Mrs. Robert Pierson, a daughter, and Michael and Mary Rockefeller.

Police blocked off the terminal building from the public.

The governor turned to the crowd outside and said, "Thank you for giving us Anne Marie." A murmur of approval went up.

As the flight was called, Anne Marie kissed her parents and her sister Thorild, who was teary-eyed. Standing before the ramp to the plane, Anne Marie and Steven waved to the crowd and a mighty cheer went up.

Tiffany Thayer Dies; Wrote 'Thirteen Men'

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP)—Tiffany Thayer, author of many novels, including a best-selling novel of the 1920s, "Thirteen Men," died Sunday after suffering a heart attack. He was 57.

Thayer, who lived in New York, was vacationing here with his wife, the former Kathleen McMahon.

He was employed six months a year by the advertising firm of Sullivan, Stauffer, Caldwell, and Bayles, New York. He worked the remainder of each year on novels. He was secretary of the Fortean Society of New York and was editor of Doubt, a quarterly magazine.

Thayer was born in Freeport, Ill., and was a reporter for the United Press in 1919 and 1920. He went into dramatic stock at Oak Park, Ill., and later joined road shows. Between theatrical engagements, he worked in book stores in Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland.

In 1926, he went to New York to make his splash in show business but he hardly caused a ripple on Broadway. He wrote later that he was forced to write for a living after his savings were depleted.

Thayer wrote "Thirteen Men" evenings and weekends. After its publication in 1930, he toured Europe and returned to this country to find that he was the author of a best seller. After that he published 19 books.

JAMES CROW, maker of the first real bourbon, received many well-known people at his distillery.

The day James Crow's bourbon appeared, 124 years ago in Kentucky, real bourbon was made for the first time. The people of the era instantly knew it, and the fame of Old Crow grew with the growing nation.

It towered over the hit-and-miss bourbons of its day. Today, there is still no near rival to Old Crow. It is America's preferred bourbon. Try its light, mild, mellow Kentucky flavor—and enjoy the perfect bourbon.

in inter - religious relations. Catholicism now could be elected.

SEES NO 1928

There would be some "vote" against a Catholic, he said, but the bitterness of 1928 would not be repeated.

World Outlook, an influential monthly published by the Methodist Church, the nation's largest Protestant body, says that reasonable voters will select candidates because of their positions and issues.

Bishop Gene Kennehy, head of the Methodist Church in the Los Angeles area, has said that a Catholic president would have pressures put on him by his church that a Protestant or Jew would never know.

Still another Methodist commented. The Rev. Dr. Otto Nall, editor of the New Christian Advocate, professional journal of Methodist pastors, wrote:

"No Protestant in his right mind thinks that a Catholic president would 'take orders from Rome,' but no American wants to accept as the symbol of his nation a man whose church—I do not say his religious faith—keeps him from according religious freedom to all."

The Georgia Baptist Convention of the Southern Baptist Con-

National Association of Evangelicals.

"Any country the Roman Catholic Church dominates suppresses the rights of evangelicals," said. "For that reason, the Americans view with alarm the possible election of a Catholic as president of the United States."

The union of American Congregations, chief sponsor for reform Judaism in the country, charged it was "anti-Catholicity" to ask Catholic candidates to answer questions about state relations.

There has been much comment on the issue, a favoring a Catholic president, some of it critical of Catholics for entering into the discus-

Pistol Shot Kills Man At Dalton

Constitution State News Service
DALTON—A 25-year-old Dalton man died instantly of a pistol wound in the heart Sunday following a shooting that officers termed accidental.

Lt. B. H. Butler identified the victim as Harold Franklin Bearden.

Butler quoted the victim's wife, Mrs. Evaline Hooper Bearden, as saying she and her husband were attempting to remove the clip from a .25 caliber automatic Italian pistol.

She said she was holding the pistol and her husband was trying to remove the clip when the pistol fired.

An autopsy was performed Sunday by Dr. Fort Felker Jr., county medical examiner. Coroner Frank Buchanan said an inquest will be held when the autopsy report has been returned.

Mr. Bearden is also survived by a three-week-old daughter, Debra; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bearden, and four brothers, B. F., Willie, Hoyt and Claud Bearden, all of Dalton.

Billy Graham Gluttony Classed as Sin in Bible

QUESTION: My husband keeps telling me I need to go on a diet because I'm too heavy. I don't believe it's the right thing to do but I'm wondering if there is any religious or Christian meaning to it. — H. B.

ANSWER: Certainly there is good reason for diet, not only from the physiological standpoint but also from the Christian. Diet is discipline and control, whereas indulgence is a form of self-satisfaction that displays almost no Christian virtue. It is regarded in the Bible as a sin to drink alcohol to the point of drunkenness. At the same time, those who are most vocal about the drunkard will eat to excess.

Paul once said, "I keep my body in subjection, lest while I minister unto others I myself should be rejected." Christianity is essentially the dominance of the lower passions and desires by the higher. Eating, as enjoyable and pleasant as it is, can become an enemy of a deeply spiritual life.

And if the Bible had nothing to say about such things, the average good doctor would insist that moderation and discipline in such matters are good health measures. It becomes more meaningful for a Christian because we are taught the body is the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 6:19-20).

The Bible has a great deal to say about gluttony. It is always spoken of as sin.

Pola Negri Returning to Screen Again

CANNES, France (AP)—Pola Negri, star of the silent films, said Sunday she will make her first movie in 10 years.

"I have invested my money wisely and don't need to work," the one-time screen vamp told newsmen on her arrival for a vacation, "but this scenario pleased me and gave me a suitable role."

The film depicts a woman who saves the world by foiling a plot to destroy it with a secret atomic device. The movie, to be made by William Dieterle, will be called "The Mystery of the World."

Here's Schedule For CD Classes

The following civil defense classes and meetings will be held this week:

MONDAY—7:30 a.m., Camellia Gardens, North Fulton Optimist Club, Jack Granham, speaker.

TUESDAY—8:30 a.m., 645 Sycamore St., Decatur, emergency mass feeding course, 12:30 p.m., Candler Hotel, Decatur Civic Center, W. M. Ormiston, speaker.

WEDNESDAY—8:30 a.m., 645 Sycamore St., Decatur, emergency mass feeding course, 12 noon, Lighthouse Restaurant, planning meeting.

As I See It

TV's Edd Byrnes
Scared of Kookie

By PAUL JONES

Paul Jones

Edd Byrnes, of 77 Sunset Strip, is now riding the crest of the most fabulous popularity any young star ever enjoyed—but he's scared to death.

He's afraid Kookie, the character he created in the TV show, is becoming better known than Edd Byrnes.

Just before I was introduced to him at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel the other day, the Warner Bros. press corps briefed me on how I should address him.

"Don't call him Kookie," said one. "He's touchy about that. Just call him Edd."

Edd Byrnes

"Yes, for goodness sake don't call him Kookie," said another. "And leave off the comb bit. The comb thing has been worked to death. Everywhere he has been they've photographed him with a comb."

I told them that fractured some plans I had to photograph him with pretty Sue Hanson, a girl who is studying to be a beautician. She had wanted to comb his hair for him.

Gale Storm

It turned out that the press agents were on the level. He doesn't want to be called Kookie and he would like for everybody to forget the comb.

If this sounds incongruous you must remember that many an entertainer has found his own personality subordinated to that of a character he might have played on TV or in the movies. Look what happened to Bill (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd and Basil (Sherlock Holmes) Rathbone. Look what happened to Wyatt (Hugh O'Brian) Earp and Gale (My Little Margie) Storm.

Byrnes is a young fellow. He's 27, and he wants a long career in show business. If he had the chance I believe he would drop out of the 77 Sunset Strip series right now and go in for movies exclusively, because he feels that on the screen he has a greater opportunity for diversified roles.

It sounded sort of strange to hear this handsome, personable young fellow say, "I'd like to get away from that Kookie and the comb routine," because these two gimmicks are the things which have put some big money in his jeans.

Whatever they call him—Kookie or Edd—I'm sure this young fellow will be around in both pictures and TV for a long time. He has the material.

Jimmy Durante

IT'LL BE GOOD to see the Old Schnoz, Jimmy Durante, back on TV again—if for nothing but to hear him do his "Goodnight, Mrs. Kalibash" and his sign-off routine once again. Jimmy will do a big show Sept. 25 when he has as his guests Sal Mineo, Bobby Darin, Gisele MacKenzie and Ginny Tui, the 5-year-old pianist from Hong Kong. Wow, what a cast! The Crosby brothers might be feudin' with papa but they're still on speaking terms with one of Bing's old cronies, Bob Hope. Bob has signed the four to appear on his first special Oct. 4. This marks Bob's 10th anniversary in TV and more than 4,000,000 miles he has traveled in entertaining servicemen since May, 1941. No other entertainer can make that statement. . . . Oscar Katz, the new CBS program chief, is setting up a drama workshop in Hollywood where the network will develop new talent for TV. Three cheers for Mr. Katz! This is something that all networks should have done a long time ago. There's plenty of talent around. All we have needed is a training ground for young entertainers. . . . I'm wondering what pro football is going to do to Gunsmoke this fall. Do you suppose the big Saturday night games will throw Matt Dillon and Chester for a loss? The Lions meet the Giants in this week's pigskin row. . . . Kickoff is at 10 p.m., Channel 11.

Oscar Katz

On the Cover

The talented young actors on this week's cover—drawn by New York artist Ali Ulvi—are Carol Lynley, Warren Berlinger and Brandon de Wilde, here portraying three nice teen-agers trying to act like worldly big-shots in a scene from "Blue Denim." The film is hailed by critics as an honest, non-sensational effort to tell the story of a nice young girl who gets pregnant. It is scheduled to open Friday at the Fox.

TV Keeps Zimbalist Rushing

'I Just Drifted Into Acting'

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

North American Newspaper Alliance

HOLLYWOOD — When your father is a famous violinist and your mother an equally well-known singer, it's 99 per cent sure you will earn your living in some form or another in the entertainment world.

But Efrem Zimbalist Jr., star of the 77 Sunset Strip television series, told me, "I can't remember when I decided to be an actor. I never had a burning desire to act. As a boy in Philadelphia, I studied the violin and the piano a bit. My mother, Alma Gluck, was a great opera singer, but right now I'm trying NOT to make a record because I'm not a singer. I guess I just drifted into acting, the way I drifted into marriage.

"I began acting in a small way before the war. I went to the Neighborhood Playhouse;

Sheilah Graham, whose columns on movies and television appear regularly in the Amusements Guide, interviewed Efrem Zimbalist Jr. prior to her departure for Europe and her current vacation abroad.

it's a school. My classmates were Gregory Peck, Tony Randall, and Eli Wallach, among others.

"Yes, they all showed signs of future greatness. But the most brilliant of all of us is an actor you've never heard of—Mike Strong. He's an extraordinary actor, and someday, someone will discover him—he's in a class by himself. They all took two-year courses, I went into the Army for my second year, and I didn't go back."

But the acting bug had bitten.

"I was terribly lucky," Ef-

ZIMBALIST AS PRIVATE-EYE BAILEY GIVES PASSING CUTIE THE EYE

Typical Scene from 77 Sunset Strip Drawn by Cartoonist George Fisher

rem, slender, gentle, told me in his quiet, cultivated voice. "I got a Broadway job within a few weeks of coming out of the Army. It was in Robert Sherwood's last play, 'The Rugged Path.' Spencer Tracy starred and Garson Kanin directed. It was a hit, but Spencer had to leave to make a movie and the play closed."

Efrem came to Hollywood two and a-half years ago.

"I made a test in New York for 'Sayonara.' I didn't get the part and Josh Logan told me I was wrong for it. So instead, I got the role in 'Bomber 52' that a man called James Garner tested for. And he landed the part in 'Sayonara' that I wanted—Marlon Brando's friend."

And here they both are at Warners, each with a successful television series.

When Zimbalist started filming 77 Sunset Strip, he joined Garner and me at lunch, listened while Mr. Maverick said, "I'm exhausted."

"Will the day come, do you think," I asked Efrem, teasingly then, "that YOU will be exhausted from telefilming?"

"I hope so," he replied seriously.

IS EXHAUSTED

"Well, are you exhausted?" I asked him, now that he has filmed 39 hour shows and started a new batch of 39.

"Kind of," he admitted happily. "I recently returned from a tour to promote the series, and I've never been so grateful for Hollywood climate, smog and all. I'd forgotten about the humidity in the East."

Efrem and his family live in Encino. He has three children—in a play in New York, and it was the only day I had off.

"We drove to New Hartford in Connecticut—I still have a house there—and the next day back to New York and 'Fallen Angels.' I had a wonderful part for an actor. I played the French lover, talked about all during the play, and came on in the last 10 minutes.

"We still haven't had a honeymoon and it doesn't look likely for a long time. Apart from the television show, we are encumbered with too many animals and such—an Arabian stallion and another thoroughbred horse—Stephanie rides and hunts. We also have 25 chickens, three dogs and a rat."

(The rat runs around the two-acre estate, and remind me not to go there when he is running around.) There is a swimming pool, stables and a corral.

"I'm bored," continued Zimbalist. "I've had three weeks off, I've smelt the pasture and it's hard to get back to work."

Like Mr. Garner, Efrem

wants to make movies as well as telefilms.

Before television, Efrem says, he had a hobby—tennis. "I still try to get in a game during the weekend, but you get out of condition. Last time I played I put my knee out of joint. The doctor won't let me play for two months. Funny thing, the day I learned this, I was invited to play on the tennis court of my boss, Jack Warner. I had to say no."

He seemed regretful—no one likes to say no to the boss.

Other TV people at Warners drifted over—Roger Moore, Clint Walker, Ty Hardin, and then they all rushed back to their various sets. In television circles there isn't much time for talking.

Disney's Tiny Irish Folk On Screen in Color Here

As every Irishman knows, Leprechauns really do exist, and Walt Disney is out to prove it in "Darby O'Gill and the Little People," a Technicolor film scheduled to open Friday at the Roxy.

The flesh-and-blood fantasy is based on the series of Darby O'Gill stories by H. T. Kavanagh. Darby is a shanachie—storyteller to you who aren't Irish—who manages to call forth the Wee Folk.

The cast, imported chiefly from Ireland and England, includes Albert Sharpe as Darby O'Gill, lovely Janet Munro as his daughter Katie, Sean Connery as her lover and Jimmy O'Dea as tiny King Brian.

A Murder Is Not A Murder

Why should the widow of a big financier try to make his suicide look like murder?

Answer: Because the dead man's life insurance policy is null and void in case of self-destruction.

That's the problem facing Michele Morgan in "There's Always a Price Tag," a Arthur Rank film opening Wednesday at the Peachtree Art. Costarring in this story of a murder that isn't a murder is Daniel Gelin as Michele's boy friend and Peter Van Eyck as the alcoholic financier.

"The H-Man" is the latest in a gallery of Hollywood-created monsters inspired by the atomic age.

Seems that this "H-Man" is a formless blob that lurks in water, whether in the vicinity of a tidal wave or a leaky faucet. The Columbia movie, which opens Thursday at the Paramount, was shot on location in Tokyo in EastmanColor.

Sharing the Paramount double bill of horrors is an opus called "The Woman Eater," another bit of science fiction. George Coulouris stars.

'Wagon Train' Has New Role For Bette Davis

Bette Davis has the role of the West's first woman impresario in "The Elizabeth McQueeney Story" on "Wagon Train" next season. The full-hour teleplay went into production at Revue Productions in Hollywood July 1.

In the drama, written and directed by Allen H. Miner, Miss Davis escorts a bevy of beautiful girls Westward to Nevada where she plans to open a large dance hall.

This will be the second appearance on "Wagon Train" for Miss Davis. She starred in "The Ella Lindstrom Story" last Feb. 4.

Jerry Lewis Sails On to New Contract

To symbolize Jerry Lewis' new contract as producer-star at Paramount, Jack Karp, studio head, sent the comedian an unusual gift which Lewis is displaying in his dressing room on the set of Hal Wallis' "Visit To A Small Planet."

It's a model displaying three ships sailing on the high seas. The ships are named Paramount, York and Independent, referring to the two studio companies and Jerry's own organization involved in the deal.

On the model is the phrase: "Let's Sail On Together To Greater Horizons."

"Visit To A Small Planet" brings to an end Lewis' 11 year contract with Producer Wallis.

Betty's Typed---Unhappily

By DON ROYAL

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK—Betty Ann Grove is out touring the summer stock circuit, trying to build a career as an actress, and is finding big surprises all over.

The play she did in Amish country in Pennsylvania contains some dialogue that plays nicely on Broadway.

But down that way, they won't accept Betty as the sophisticated type and the dialogue has to be scrubbed up before Betty delivers it.

NOT THAT SWEET

"They've seen me so much on daytime TV they think of me as sweet little Betty Ann. I won't say that I'm not sweet, but I'm not that sweet. And if I could get into a Broadway show, I'd say anything the author put in my mouth.

"The one long scene I had is supposed to get lots of laughs, but in the expurgated

Betty Ann Grove will be on TV twice this week—Monday night as a guest on the Arthur Murray Dance Party (Channel 2 at 10 p.m.) and Saturday as guest star on Jubilee, U.S.A. (Channel 11 at 8 p.m.). version, it isn't very funny at all. It doesn't matter apparently, since they just want to sit and like you."

Betty Ann came down to New York way back when Dumont was a big name in television. She's been performing since she was 4, is reasonably extroverted, and obviously interested in being more than just a singer.

"When I see the newspapers

listing me as 'female vocalist' that really kills me. It makes it sound so trivial. I've been taking voice lessons and my voice is now big enough for the theater.

"I used to be able to sing

Why Do Good People Suffer?

• Why can the evil man flourish while the good die young? Here is the most timeless and universal of all questions—a difficult and baffling one for all of us. But, from the heart of the Middle West, a minister, Dr. Robert W. Youngs, presents a logical and comforting answer in September Reader's Digest.

powerfully, but the voice didn't carry. I've discovered that I was not only singing wrong, but talking wrong.

"You've got to use your whole diaphragm or your voice can go any minute. I was developing nodes on my vocal cords and would have needed surgery if I didn't correct my projection."

Married to Ed Brown, an ad man, Betty lives in Manhattan, admits she has to learn her parts away from home. Things swing too much there.

Something WONDERFUL happens to you when you attend

MASSEY COLLEGE of ATLANTA!

ELIZABETH M. YOUNG
Massey College Graduate
Atlanta, Georgia

"When my husband died in 1954 it was necessary for me to find a position with which to support my small family. I was 41 years old and did not have the self-confidence that I needed, nor the skill, to compete in the business world. Massey College was most highly recommended to me, and, after a wonderful interview, I decided to take the P.B.X. Receptionist and Clerk-Typist course at Massey College. A short time after I graduated from Massey College I was placed on a job at Television Station WLW-A TV through Massey's free job placement department.

"One of the biggest dividends that came to me from having enrolled at Massey is that I was able to pass the High School Equivalent Examination and I was given my High School Diploma. For this reason alone, my Massey College education is worth more to me than you can know. Massey did wonders for my morale. I got my Massey College Diploma; I got my High School Diploma; I was placed on a fascinating job . . . and recently I got married, again to a wonderful man! Massey College will always have my highest recommendation."

Something Special . . .

Many of our Guests ask us what is your specialty! Catering to traveling Americans and Local Georgia friends. We try to treat everyone as someone SPECIAL. We feel that our old-fashioned Pot Roast of Beef is unusual. We start with a thick cut of Western beef, cover with rich, brown gravy in a covered dish, with a bouquet of garden-fresh vegetables and crisp green salad on the side, plenty of hot biscuits, free honey.

When you have finished that, we doubt you'll want a dessert but if you do we have the finest tart cherry, apple or our famous Mile-High coconut pie. Don't forget our business luncheons starting from 95c.

Breakfast from 5:30 A.M.—Lunch 11 A.M. to 5 P.M.
Dinner 'til Midnight
